Shoot to Kill" Order Given To Troops in Harlan County Mine War

Acceptance of Contract in Gives Employment to Large Force of Miners

Secretary of Labor Perkins to Send Mediator for Conferences with Operators and Unions

Marion, Ky., May 17. (P)—Every national guardsman in Kentucky has orders to be ready to move into the Harlan coal fields, as was announced tonight.

Brigadier General Elmer
F. Carter, placed in full command of the trouble zone late in the day by Governor A. B. Chandler, at his press conference said:

"Things have been pretty rough today, rougher instead of better. I want to tell you one thing, the situation will be handled if it takes all the national guard in Kentucky. The others have orders to stand by."

(By The Associated Press) Breaks in the ranks of southern operators holding out against the "union shop" to John Lewis's CIO miners occurred today (Wed.) in Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, while in Harlan county, center of employer resistance, troops protecting mines workers without union contracts had orders to "shoot to kill, if necessary."

The acceptance of a Lewis contract by the Harlan county coal operators, employing about 7,000 men, is only the Harlan operators dismissing in Kentucky.

In mid-afternoon, the Virginia Coal Operators Association yielded to the union, making an agreement which will put about 7,500 miners back to work tomorrow.

Meanwhile, at Knoxville, Tenn., Southern Appalachian operators presenting 20 mines in Tennessee and Kentucky likewise signed a union shop contract. About 5,500 men were involved in the agreement.

Secretary of Labor Perkins declared to send a conciliator to mediate between the Harlan county operators and the CIO.

In West Virginia, four mines of a U. S. Steel Corporation subsidiary granted without a union contract.

Women Seek To Have All Troops Removed

Harlan, Ky., May 17. (P)—Women of Harlan county mining community marched seven miles into town today to ask removal of state troops from the coal fields as conciliation moves in the union miner-operator difficulties were made in the state capital and Washington.

In the meantime, 400 additional national guardsmen were mobilized and moved toward Harlan.

The women, approximately 200 in number, dressed in their Sunday best and many holding small children by the hand, were from Verda, a mine village.

They crowded into county Judge E. Ball's courtroom, One of the group, identifying herself as Mrs.
Price of the United Mine Workers' auxiliary at Verda, told the judge:

Women Ask For Mercy
"Our men won't work without a contract. We are asking you to remind the machine guns so our men can feel free to work. They just

Wagner Health Bill Condemned in Report to American Medical Ass'n

St. Louis, May 17. (P)—The House
Delegates of the American Medical Association late today sharply condemned the Wagner health bill as inconsistent with the fundamental principles of medical care established by scientific medical experience and therefore contrary to the best interests of the American people.

A report on the bill, which proposes federal subsidies for the insurance of the sick, was made by a special committee of physicians which has considered it for three days and was adopted by the delegates without dissenting vote.

The report said further:
"The American Medical Association would fail in its public trust if it neglected to express itself unequivocally against the bill."

PLAYBOY'S DEATH NOT CAUSED BY A BLOW

Sarasota, Fla., May 17. (P)—Dr.
David R. Kennedy testified today that Potter D'Orsay Palmer died "from natural causes and not from any external injuries," and assistant State's Attorney W. M. Smiley said later the inquiry into the Chicago heir's death was closed.

The 34-year-old playboy died at a hospital Monday and at that time Dr. Kennedy said death was due to a cerebral hemorrhage caused by a "terrible blow" on the head.

But at the opening session of the inquest yesterday Assistant State's Attorney W. M. Smiley reported the autopsy had not borne out this theory.

Canadians Give Great Welcome to Visiting Royalty

Thousands Greet King and Queen Upon Arrival in Quebec

By FRANK H. KING
Quebec, May 17. (P)—Canada acclaimed King George and Queen Elizabeth today upon their arrival at an unprecedented royal tour and then pledged a new loyalty and homage to the British throne and its occupants.

Hour after hour, from early morning until nearly midnight, the King and Queen went through the ritual of state functions, presentations, audiences, addresses and drives through the city. They slept tonight behind the thick walls of the old citadel on "The Rock" which is now the summer home of Canada's governor—general, Lord Tweedsmuir.

Through it all was the informality of the western world, evident despite the military and official character of the events. This appeared to be enhanced by the charm and the manner of Queen Elizabeth, who won feminine favor, by the modest demeanor of the king and by what Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King called the "qualities of heart and character" possessed by the visitors.

Praises King and Queen
"Greater than our sense of the splendor of your state," he said at the official government luncheon,
"is our affection for two young people who bear, in so high a spirit, a responsibility unparalleled in the world."

Quebec gave the British sovereigns a great welcome, although one dif-

72,000 Chickens Perish in Fire Near Charleston

Gigantic Davidson Hatchery Destroyed in Mysterious Blaze

FIREMEN POWERLESS
TO SECURE WATER

Owner Believes Firebug Is Responsible for Fire

Charleston, W. Va., May 17. (P)— Seventy-two thousand chickens were burned today as a $100,000 fire destroyed the buildings of the Davidson Brothers hatchery.

Dr. Jim Davidson, one of the operators, said in addition to the chickens, 56,000 eggs also were lost.

Six buildings and the Davidson residence were burned before the Charleston fire department, hampered when an electrically operated well broke down, could bring the flames under control.

A passing motorist aroused the Davidson family about 5 a. m. after noticing flames in one of the brooder houses.

In an hour the plant was destroyed.

All Current Cut Off
"All operating equipment requiring heat and current from our heating and electric plants was cut off last night at 9 o'clock."

The hatchery, one of the largest in the Mid-Atlantic section, was located on the St. Albans road near suburban South Charleston.

Davidson, who with his brother built the plant three years ago, said the loss was only slightly covered by insurance.

Fire Lines Too Short
Fire lines were too short to extend to the Kanawha river, which forms one boundary of the farm.

After the booster tanks were emptied on the fire trucks, only a limited amount of water was available.

The Davidson's managed to save most of their household belongings before the residence was burned.

The flames were brought under control just before they reached a building which is under construction.

The plant was crowded to capacity, Davidson said, with baby chicks destined for the spring markets.

British Brokers Seeking To Halt Flight of Cash

Ask Investors Not To Buy
United States
Securities

London, May 17. (P)—English stockbrokers, following the government's plea against further export of capital, today agreed to attempt to discourage British investors from buying United States and other foreign securities.

At the request of the Bank of England, which asked they assist in blocking the outflow of funds, they decided to cease quoting or recommending dollar investments, and to reserve the right to refuse orders for the purchase of dollar stocks and bonds and to urge investors not to export their capital.

The quotations halted include an extensive range of foreign dollar bonds floated in the United States, some of them by British dominions.

(New York brokerage houses with branches in London were advised today their London offices were cooperating with the bank of England's request, were not distributing market quotations and would meet Friday to establish a policy to be followed by all.)

(While it was felt in some Wall street quarters that the pound sterling might have been endangered by the export of huge amounts of gold and the purchase of dollars necessary to ship capital here, some New York foreign exchange experts said the pound's position had been such that the equalization fund had not found it necessary to intervene, except casually, to protect the currency in the past week or so.)

JUST BEFORE BACKMAN TOOK OFF

Carl Backman, Swedish aviator, is pictured as he took off from St. Johns, Newfoundland, bound for Sweden in a 90-horsepower, singlemotored monoplane with a cruising speed of 110 m.p.h. The blond, 27-year-old aviator hopped off at 3:40 a. m. Tuesday, Eastern Daylight Time. His plane has no radio. He was unreported at 1:30 a. m. today.

Charles Backman Long Overdue On Flight from U. S. To Sweden

Lone Aviator's Gas Believed Exhausted
Hours Ago

Stockholm, May 17. (P)—Fears for the safety of Charles Backman, Swedish trans-Atlantic flier, increased tonight as the time passed when his gasoline supply should have been exhausted and no reports were received of his arrival anywhere in northern Europe.

Backman's plane was not equipped with radio and no word of him has been heard since his takeoff from St. Johns, Newfoundland, early yesterday on an attempted solo hop to Stockholm.

One of the flier's brothers expressed fear that he was down at sea. "Charles is a good aviator, but the ocean crossing was too risky," he said.

The aviator's mother, brothers and sisters, who had known nothing of his flight plans until they received press reports of his takeoff, remained by their radio in the tiny village of Rattvik, in Dalecarlia, hoping to hear news of him.

King and Queen May Eat FDR's Hot Dogs

Washington, May 17. (P)—The king and queen of England may get a chance to sample Roosevelt hotdogs at a hilltop picnic near the President's Hyde Park home June 14.

Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt said today that she hoped to have a picnic for the British rulers, but that her mother-in-law, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, would rather have a garden party.

If the picnic wins and it's very hot, she added, there won't be hot dogs. If it isn't too hot, there may be.

Tawes Warns Taxpayers Not To Try To Cut Corners under New State Law

Baltimore, May 17. (P)—Taxpayers who try to cut corners with Maryland's new 1940-41 combination income tax schedules may find an auditor on their door steps.

Comptroller J. Millard Tawes gave citizens nearly 10 months' warning today, with an announcement his department already is laying groundwork for a close check-up on all returns filed next year.

To start the machinery rolling, he disclosed, a staff of field auditors is being developed and is handling returns filed in 1937 and 1938 under the present one-half of one per cent income tax existing corporation levies.

Four auditors began work on 300
"doubtful" returns in Baltimore Monday. In a week or two, Tawes said, two auditors would begin a check-up in the counties.

On October 1, the new two and one-half per cent tax on earned income, the six per cent levy on unearned income, and a one and one-half per cent tax on corporate incomes, go into effect. Returns are due in most cases the following March 15.

Since the income tax is expected to yield a net of approximately $5,600,000 a year, and forms the backbone of Gov. Herbert R.
O'Connor's budget-balancing revenue program, fiscal authorities plan to take no chances on revenue being lost through evasion or falsified returns.

Tawes said auditors would make a "much more detailed" study of new tax payments than was made in 1937 and 1938. The tax now is so small, he explained, that the amount of return in many instances failed to justify more than routine check-ups.

He also ordered a closer watch on rebates for gasoline taxes. He estimated approximately $100,000 a year could be saved the state if illegal claims could be weeded out.

Annually, he said, the comptroller's office collects about $10,000,000 in gasoline taxes and rebates about $800,000 to persons who claim they purchased gasoline for use in boats, airplanes, or factories and not in vehicles using highways.

Revenue from the gasoline taxes is dedicated to highway purposes.

Says U. S. Steel Does Not Need Financial Help

Edw. R. Stettinius, Jr. Testifies before Monopoly Committee

Under Normal Conditions Company is "Self Sufficient"

Washington, May 17. (P)—The monopoly committee, seeking means whereby the nation's enormous reservoir of unused savings and capital can be put to work, received testimony today that ordinarily the vast U. S. Steel Company doesn't need much outside financial help.

The testimony was given by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., young chairman of the steel company, who said that under normal operating conditions the concern is "financially self sufficient." For example, he said, the company has spent some $500,000,000 in modernizing old plants and building new ones in the last ten years, and most of the money came from the company's revenues.

In addition, he submitted a table covering a longer period, from 1921 to 1938 inclusive, which showed an outlay of $1,222,256,649 for plants and equipment. During the period the company raised only $239,951,721 through the sale of common stock, and at the same time, its total funded debt was reduced by $333-252,435 through the retirement of $520,234,655 of its bonds and the issuance of $186,982,230 in new bonds.

As Stettinius was about to leave the stand, Leon Henderson of the Securities Commission obtained his agreement to a statement that U. S.
Steel does not, except in extraordinary circumstances, put into production the store of capital arising from savings and other outside sources.

"Then," Henderson continued,
"the nub of your testimony is that the prospect of individual savings being capitalized in your industry is very low."

Stettinius nodded his agreement.
Stettinius, testifying while Owen D. Young of General Electric awaited his turn, was the first of a long list of American industrial executives who have been called as witnesses in the committee's study of investment and savings.

As it reached this phase of the investigation, it received yesterday from President Roosevelt a request that it inquire into the reasons why

Senate Returns Negative Vote on Florida Ship Canal

Sen. Pepper Refuses To Concede Project Is Dead

Washington, May 17. (P)—Concluding three days of heated debate, the senate today killed legislation authorizing resumption of work on the $200,000,000 Florida canal from the Atlantic to the Gulf of Mexico.
The vote 45 to 36.

The legislation would have revived one of the New Deal's most frequently criticized projects, started in 1935 but abandoned the following year when congress refused to appropriate funds. First work was financed by $5,400,000 of relief money.

President Roosevelt urged early in the present session that construction be resumed.

Opponents had denounced the project as unsound and wasteful, while supporters said it would aid shipping, business and agriculture, and bolster the national defense.

The bill rejected today merely sought authorization for the project's completion and asked no appropriation. It was introduced by Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) of the Senate Military Affairs Committee.

Thirty-four democrats, one independent and one farmer-laborite voted for the bill. Twenty-one republicans and one progressive joined 23 democrats in opposing it.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), a leader of the pro-canal forces, refused to concede that the canal was dead.

"It just means a delay," he said,
"you can say for me that I have five more years in the senate to fight for the canal, and I'm going to keep fighting."

Drastic Order In Palestine

Solomon Bolber, whose father, Morris Bolber, has been called "witch doctor" in Philadelphia police ring investigation is shown at counter of his father's grocery store in Brooklyn, N. Y. Philadelphia and New York police raided the store and took away suitcase of "evidence" in the form of note books, letters, photographs, and other documents.

The demonstrations at Tel Aviv, which is an all-Jewish city, were continuing as midnight approached.
Earlier, sabotage had delayed the British government's attempt to relay a summary of its white paper, announcing the plan to create in Palestine an Arab-dominated state, over the radio.

Lines between the radio transmitting station at Ramallah and the Jerusalem studio were out just as it began the broadcast. English and Arabic announcers were rushed to Ramallah, 15 miles from Jerusalem, in an armored car under heavy guard, however, and the broadcast was completed there.

In Jerusalem 300 youths marched through the streets to the Jewish agency building where cries were heard of "down with Chamberlain,"
"down with MacDonald and Hal-fax," "long live the Jewish state."

Chamberlain is the British prime minister. Malcolm MacDonald and Viscount Halifax are the colonial and foreign ministers.

Nation-wide demonstrations were organized by the Jews for tomorrow with hundreds of thousands expected to participate.

Balfour Favored Jews
A declaration of British policy on Nov. 2, 1917, by Lord Balfour, then British foreign secretary, invited Jews to make a national home in Palestine and expressed sympathy toward Zionist aspirations.

Of Jewish charges that limitation of immigration into Palestine violates terms of the league mandate, the white paper said:

"His majesty's government believes that the framers of the mandate in which the Balfour declaration was embodied could not have intended that Palestine should be converted into a Jewish state against the will of the Arab population."

The white paper referred to the breakdown in consultations with Arab and Jewish leaders in London early this year and explained:

"Accordingly, his majesty's government are free to formulate their own policy and after careful consideration have decided to adhere generally to the proposals which they finally submitted to and discussed with the Arab and Jewish delegations."

After announcing the one-third rule, under which Jews would be allowed to bring the 75,000 immigrants into Palestine in the next five years, the white paper added:

"His majesty's government is satisfied that when the immigration

"Captive" Mines to Operate without Signing Contract with CIO Mine Unions

Pittsburgh, May 17. (P)—The Bethlehem Steel Company today in effect rejected a union shop for workers in its "captive" mines while the U. S. Steel Corporation opened four of its West Virginia pits in defiance of union threats to picket the operations.

Well-informed sources viewed the moves as another indication that operators of "captive mines" which supply fuel solely to steel mills, might refuse to accept the union shop clause granted to CIO's United Mine Workers by commercial producers in the Appalachian field.

The "captive mine" operators negotiate separate agreements with the UMW, but normally accept the conditions set forth in commercial pacts.

George Roberts, division superintendent of Bethlehem's subsidiary the Industrial Collieries Corporation, told miners in Johnstown the company was "ready to operate the mines whenever the men desire to return to work—under wages, hours and working conditions exactly as they were prior to March 31."

The union shop stipulation, which requires miners to become union members after their employment, is the only major difference between the old and new contracts.

Bethlehem's mines in Cambria county and near Fairmont, W. Va., closed April 1 when the Appalachian field shutdown began. John Duray, spokesman for the miners who conferred with Roberts, claimed 699 of 900 employees at the company's Rosedale mine near Johnstown were con-union and ready to work

Moscow Offered New Concessions By Great Britain

Fresh Effort Made To Bring Russia into Alliance

London, May 17 (AP)—The British cabinet was said by informed sources tonight to have approved a new note to Moscow offering important concessions to bring Soviet Russia into the French-British front.

Whether the note has been delivered yet was undisclosed, but Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky called at the foreign office and was said to have been told of the British proposals.

One usually well-informed source said the British message would be transmitted to Sir William Seeds, British ambassador to Moscow, tonight for communication to Yvachefsky Molotov, Soviet premier and commissar of foreign affairs.

The foreign office spokesman said "active consultations are in progress" both in London and Moscow, but failed to mention the nature of Britain's new proposals.

The amended suggestions, however, were reported to be an advance toward the Soviet plan for a full military alliance among Britain, France and Russia, and to be designed to meet Moscow's desire for reciprocal commitments.

The new proposal envisages a Russian promise to fight for Poland, Rumania, Estonia, Latvia and Finland. In return, Britain and France would promise to go to Russia's aid if Russia went to war to fulfill these pledges.

Prime Minister Chamberlain faced a barrage of questions in the House of Commons on the status of the negotiations with Moscow, but said: "I cannot, at present, give any details."

Britain's quick action on a reply was believed to prepare the way for discussions to take place at Geneva Monday while Maisky, Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, and French Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet are there for a League of Nations council meeting.

In some quarters it was believed that a hastening of negotiations indicated a conclusive stage was being approached.

ferent from the massed demonstrations of London's teeming millions and different from the spectacular show of a Broadway ticket tape reception in New York.

The setting of the scene was too vast for that. All Quebec, and thousands of visitors, saw the white liner Empress of Australia round the bend of the river this morning with colors flying and move into Wolfe's cove, but the crowds merely dotted the cliffs.

Many Get Closeup
In a lifetime few Londoners see their king and queen with such freedom and ease as Quebec saw them today in spite of the tightest military and police surveillance the royal mounted police could devise.

The crowds simply went out into the great open spaces along the river shore or on the cliffs above, into the parks or streets where the king and queen drove and had their fill of looking and cheering.

The royal visitors seemed to set the note for the day with an informal and unexpected appearance on the promenade deck of the Empress of Australia as soon as she tied up at Wolfe's cove.

Although garbed in the brilliant splendor of a British admiral, King George came to the rail with the queen and waved as if they were passengers home from a pleasure cruise.

Shake Hands with Officers
With the ship already two days late because of ice, fog and storms, Queen Elizabeth added four minutes more to the delay of the landing by stopping with the king to shake hands and say good bye to officers and men of the liner that brought them safely to their American dominion.

Canada's first view of Queen Elizabeth was of a smiling, happy woman at the ship rail dressed all in gray—gray shoes, stockings, tailored costume and off-the-face hat. Observers differed about the exact shade of gray. The hat wasn't turned up, or a full halo, but just off-the-face.

So crowded was the program that visitors had but few minutes rest between functions and Queen Elizabeth wore the same outfit from breakfast through to dinner where she appeared in her evening costume.

The King rushed out of his admiral's uniform and hat for luncheon, appearing in formal morning attire for the occasion of the first address a British king ever made on North American soil.

King's First Address
"I realize that this moment is historic," he said. Enunciating each word slowly and distinctly, he addressed the first part of his speech to Prime Minister Mackenzie King in English and concluded in French for Quebec's French Canadians.

The luncheon party of nearly 300 guests at the Chateau Frontenac gave him an ovation when he sat down.

From the Hon. R. Dandurand, leader of the Canadian government forces in the Ottawa Senate, to whom the French part of the address was made, came the exclamation "Vive Le Roi!" "Long Live the King!" and much gesticulation of approval that was not Anglo-Saxon. The significant point of the

JUST HIS HARD LUCK

Yes, we said hard luck. Jim Peck, Alexandria, N. Y., riverman, shows the fifty-pound sturgeon he has just caught to his granddaughter. The catch shows the fish are running again in the Thousand Island channels and means that Jim, on relief the rest of the time, must start fishing for a living again. Relief authorities cut off his payments last year after he boasted of selling a 250-pound sturgeon at 40 cents a pound.

Virginia Mines Reopening Under Union Contracts

Nearly 7,500 Men Called Back in Five Counties

Norton, Va., May 17 (AP)—Operators of coal mines in five south-west Virginia counties, with a few exceptions, signed a union shop contract with the United Mine Workers of America today and called back to work nearly 7,500 miners, idle since April 1.

The Virginia producers were the fifth of six groups to accept the Appalachian agreement negotiated in New York May 12, after withdrawing from the conference. The sixth are the Harlan, Ky., operators.

Employers of another 7,500 Virginia miners previously had signed the same basic agreement to cover mines in Buchanan county and some in Tazewell county, both bordering West Virginia.

Today's agreement, covering miners in Wise, Lee, Dickinson, Russell and Tazewell counties, was signed following a closed meeting of the Virginia operators, which was the most largely attended in years.

Three Alternatives
George H. Esser, spokesman for the producers, said that under the circumstances "we had three alternatives: to sign the agreement, to attempt to operate on a non-union basis, or to close our mines indefinitely."

"All except the first course would have constituted economic suicide," he said, "and we therefore elected the only course open to us."

John Saxton, president of district 28 of the U.M.W., said that "our men have been peaceful throughout the controversy, and are glad to return to work."

All but two mine companies belonging to the Virginia Coal Operators' Association, and six non-members, signed.

One Company Unsigned
One of the members that did not sign, the Virginia Iron, Coal and Coke Co., agreed to the basic terms of the contract but deferred signing pending clarification of technical details in its local contracts. The other, the Clinchfield Coal Corp., with operations at Clinchco and Dante has never signed a union contract.

Another company, Ruth Elkhorn Coals, Inc., at Steinman, was understood to have already begun work although it had not signed a contract.

Saxton, who signed the agreement, said it contained the "union shop" clause, which requires a promise to join the union as a qualification for employment.

A Virginia district contract, based upon and including the Appalachian agreement signed by other operators in New York last week, and also containing an interpretation of the union shop clause as a guide in settling personnel problems in the field, will be signed later to complete today's agreement.

The new contract contains the same wages and hours provisions as the preceding agreement, which ran for two years until terminated April 1.

King's address was his tribute to North America where, he said, in the last two centuries "through loss and through gain, the British commonwealth of nations has been largely moulded into its present form."

In a great popular demonstration at Battleground Park, after the luncheon, 25,000 massed school children sang "God Save the King" in French. This was on the Plains of Abraham where Wolfe fell in the battle in 1759 which made Canada a part of the British Empire.

Allegany County To Get $13,432 In Tax Refunds

O'Connor Signs 104 Acts, 29 of Them State-wide

Annapolis, May 17 (AP)—Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor tonight signed 104 acts of the 1939 legislature, including the state bill returning $337,254 in lateral gas tax funds to the counties and reforming the state magistrates' system.

Twenty-nine of the measures were state-wide in character. The remainder were local measures, headed by a number of bond issue bills.

Reform of the magistrates' courts provides for a reduction of the number of magistrates in the counties and abolishes the fee system. Magistrates will henceforward be paid a regular salary, depending on the size of their districts.

The lateral gas tax refund will benefit all counties in the state. Receipts on the 1 1/2 per cent lateral gas tax exceeded expectations and the excess will be returned to the counties on a pro rata basis computed on the ratio county road mileage bears to the state's road mileage.

Among the county refunds are: Allegany, $13,432; Frederick, $29,795; Garrett, $18,898; Montgomery, $19,899; Prince George's, $17,343; and Washington, $19,577.

The governor also signed H. B. 379, which returns future lateral gas tax collections to the counties for road maintenance. The counties ceded their rights to the state in 1935 and the present measure returns the set-up to its prior status.

The bill defining and clarifying issuance of liquor sales licenses, forbidding minors to work in the establishments and reserving the issuance of distributors' licenses to the state, won gubernatorial approval.

Oyster License Cut
The license fee for oyster tongs was cut from $5 to $3.50 annually.

Washington, D. C., coal dealers were given the right to deliver in Maryland if their load weights are certified by district weighmasters.

License fees for motorcycles and motorized bicycles were fixed at 32 cents a horsepower.

House bill 311, "The Truth in Real Estate Advertising" measure, was signed.

The state police pension bill fixing a minimum pension of $1,000 annually and boosting the levy on salaries from 2 per cent to 3 1/2 per cent was signed. Another measure fixes sick leave and vacation regulations for merit system employees.

Responsibility of hotels and inns for property loss by guests was limited in another signed bill.

House resolution No. 18, requesting the governor annually to designate the second Sunday in May as Mothers' Day was approved.

Hold Two In Death Of Child In Fire

Hyattsville, Md., May 17 (AP)—Investigators decided today to disinter the body of a 15-month-old baby girl who died in a fire at Colmar Manor last Sunday.

State's Attorney H. Winship Wheatley, Jr., of Prince Georges county, ordered disinterment while police held the baby's mother, Mrs. Hazel MacCrea, and the woman's father, W. C. Haislip, under $10,000 bond as material witnesses pending an inquest next Wednesday night.

The child was buried yesterday after a physician issued a certificate of accidental death. Police said they were investigating to determine the cause of the fire.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Shipping Big Coal Tonnage

Other Roads Also Benefit from Signing of Contracts

Baltimore, May 17 (AP)—Eastern railroads reported today coal tonnage from recently reopened mines already was swelling rail tonnage with the bulk of the increase still to come.

The Baltimore and Ohio said coal tonnage yesterday, the day after the reopening of mines closed during six weeks' negotiation between union and operators, was six times the average daily shipment during the work stoppage.

The Pennsylvania's coal volume was reported "building up nicely" but without a sudden rush. The Erie expects an increase tomorrow. A check of the Hampton Roads area showed the Chesapeake and Ohio had 35,700 tons enroute to seaboard, the Virginia 16,500, and the Norfolk and Western 16,200. Coaliers were headed to port to load for northern consumers.

The Davis Coal and Coke Company, one of the largest shippers in this area, said priority of orders was being granted only where a fuel shortage might force plant shutdowns. Railroads are cooperating on rush orders, the company said, and the time for fast shipments to Baltimore has been cut from four or five days to three days.

The B. & O., calling the heavy traffic yesterday "surprising," advanced the theory that many mines had coal in the breakers ready to ship as soon as work was resumed. Officials discounted fears of a car shortage, expressed by the Davis company, and said the road had "200 freight locomotives" ready to return cars as soon as emptied. Regular traffic before the shutdown was only about 50 per cent of normal, leaving room for expansion, they added.

The bulk of the first movement, the B. & O. said is to the industrial centers of the east but tonnage yesterday to lake ports for water shipments to the northwest was "nearly normal."

don't like to work under guns. We're asking for mercy. We have come here, judge, to see if you would remove the soldiers so our men can go to work."

An exchange between the judge and the members of the group ended when the judge said: "I am not going to do what you ask, so you might as well go on back home."

The women then marched to union headquarters. No effort was made to interfere with them.

Signing of the "union shop" agreement by the Southern Appalachian Coal Operators' Association and the Harlan field group today left the Harlan field the only one in Kentucky still dissenting from the new contract with John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers approved in New York last Saturday by fifteen groups of the soft coal area. Yesterday the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Operators' Association signed with the union.

George S. Ward, secretary of the Harlan County Coal Operators' Association estimated 25 miners were operating today with 2,400 to 2,600 men on the job. Operators estimate there are about 16,000 miners in the county; the union claims there are 12,000.

George Titler, secretary of the Harlan District U. M. W., said 800 to 900 men were working, adding he "didn't know" how many mines were opened.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad reported 108 cars of coal moved out of Harlan county Monday and 230 cars yesterday. Figures for today were not available.

Titler said the union is spending about $1,200 a day feeding the idle miners.

Chandler Offers Services
Governor A. B. Chandler said at Frankfort that the new troop movement was necessary because "more mines will open," and offered to take part "in settling the controversy, if the governor's office" was called upon. First troops were sent in Sunday.

At Washington Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins said she was sending John Conner, a labor department conciliator, into Harlan to play the role of mediator and try to end the strife.

Asked at a press conference if there was any way the federal government might intervene in the Harlan situation to avoid possible violence, Miss Perkins said:

"I don't know. It is a very intricate question."

The Hazard agreement covered an area adjacent to Harlan county and affected 7,000 men mining about 7,000,000 tons of coal annually. It was signed at Lexington by representatives of 40 mines and Sam Caddy Hazard, district president of the U. M. W.

The Southern Appalachian coal operators signed the union shop agreement at Knoxville, Tenn. The agreement affects more than 20 mines and approximately 5,500 miners in Kentucky and Tennessee.

At Norton, Va., the members of the Virginia Coal Operators' Association, with the exception of certain operators of non-union mines, joined the other capitulating organizations by signing a contract with the U. M. W. today. Miners involved totaled 7,500.

Committee Votes Against Buying Argentine Beef

Votes Against Roosevelt Proposal for Navy Purchase

Washington, May 17 (AP)—A record peace time naval appropriation of $773,049,151 reached the Senate floor today bearing a committee endorsement of a House-approved clause forbidding the navy to buy Argentine canned beef.

By a 9 to 7 show of hands, the Appropriation Committee voted to retain the beef prohibition which resulted from the controversy between President Roosevelt and western legislators over a 48,000-pound order of the product.

Mr. Roosevelt described Argentine canned beef as superior to American, and naval officials urged the Senate committee to remove the restriction, inserted by the House before it approved the appropriation.

Quick Approval Expected
The Senate is expected to give prompt approval to the huge supply bill, which contains funds for two 45,000-ton battleships, 21 other warships and auxiliaries and 500 fighting planes.

Other defense developments included:

1. The army announced that 1,000 enlisted men would be given a year's training at seven selected civilian schools to meet some of the immediate needs for aviation mechanics in the expanding air corps. Similarly, pilots will be given primary flying experience at nine private schools.

2. A report to the Senate Appropriations Committee by naval officials showed construction of a new 14,500-ton aircraft carrier was lagging more than 18 months behind schedule. Work on most of 73 other ships was reported to be on time or ahead of schedule.

3. The army estimated that 293,996 regulars, national guardsmen, reserve officers, members of the Student Reserve Officers Training Corps, and civilians would be given intensive summer military training in 131 camps. Last year, with more funds available, 298,153 were trained.

4. An order by Admiral Claude C. Bloch, fleet commander in chief, directed that unfavorable as well as favorable news on the fleet and shore stations be reported promptly.

It was a bitter day for Jews, who have worked for years for a national home in Palestine and a place of refuge there for scores of thousands of their race forced from Germany and other central European states.

Jewish leaders announced they would refuse to cooperate in any way with the British program, forecasting critical days in the future of Palestine.

"The Jewish people regard this breach of faith as a surrender to Arab terrorism," said the Jewish agency's statement.

"It delivers Great Britain's friends into the hands of those who are fighting her. It must widen the breach between Jews and Arabs and undermine the hope of peace in Palestine."

"It is the darkest hour of Jewish history that the British government proposes to deprive Jews of their last hope and to close their road back to their homeland."

"The Jews will never accept the closing against them of the gates of Palestine nor let their national home be converted into a ghetto."

Should Jewish immigrants succeed in entering the country, their number will be deducted from the yearly immigration quotas. Thousands of refugees from Europe have been turned back in recent months.

Holy Land Cut Off From Radio Broadcast

Jerusalem, May 17 (AP)—Sabotage today prevented the heavily guarded Holy Land from hearing on scheduled time the broadcast of the British government's fateful declaration on Palestine policy as Jews prepared a nation-wide protest against creation of an Arab-dominated state.

Lines between the radio transmitting station at Ramallah and the Jerusalem studio were cut just as it began to put on the air a summary of the British white paper released in London.

Postal officials worked hard to restore the lines before the official closing time of the station at 10 P. M. Telephoned inquiries from the whole countryside poured in when the station suddenly went dead just as the Arabic announcer was beginning his summary.

Jews in Haifa had planned after the broadcast to carry out a ceremonial burning of the white paper on the grounds of the Haifa technical college.

They had planned to read a statement of the Jewish agency opposing the British plan and at the same time pledge themselves to "fight to the last" against execution of the new policy.

Meanwhile, the Jewish population closed down all public activity, and by order of the chief rabbi prepared to observe tomorrow as a day of fast and prayer.

Germany Taking Census To Help Secure Control

(By The Associated Press)
Berlin, May 17 (AP)—Germany today tightened her military defenses and carried out a census which will enable her to increase her control over the lives of her people.

Military precautions were especially in evidence along the "western wall" of fortifications where Chancellor Hitler continued his tour of inspection and at the Port of Hamburg.

Minorities Concerned
Various minorities within the greater Reich were deeply concerned in the outcome of the great enumeration of population.

These were the day's principal developments:

1. Hitler examined water traps for tanks and other fortifications in the Saar region on the German-French frontier.

2. Orders were issued for a blackout in the harbor of Hamburg Friday and Saturday nights to test defense against air attack, a highly unusual action since it will affect international shipping.

3. Seven hundred fifty thousand volunteer census takers began an enumeration of the Reich's population in which foreign nationality groups were being asked whether they "feel themselves to be German."

4. Ex-Chancellor Von Papen, ambassador to Turkey, made his report on that country's adherence to the British-French front.

5. Denmark cautiously accepted Hitler's offer to negotiate a non-aggression pact, while the ministers of Finland, Sweden and Norway told the Berlin government they did not consider such pacts necessary.

A semi-official German commentary said these three "noes" actually were a disavowal of President Roosevelt's intervention of April 14, in which he asked Hitler for pledges of non-aggression against 31 states.

For Germans the census starting today meant a routine questionnaire the answers to which may, however, determine the work they should be doing to serve the state most efficiently. Officials said census data would be used to show which callings or branches of labor were overcrowded and which needed more workers.

Best Engineer in Country Sought To Fill Smith's Job

Baltimore, May 17 (AP)—Chief Engineer Nathaniel L. Smith's $8,000 job with the state roads commission was thrown open today to "the best engineer in the country."

Roads Chairman Ezra B. Whitman disclosed no formal action had been taken by Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor's newly-appointed commission to replace Smith, but he added:

"We're looking for the best engineer in the country."

Smith, a Republican, has served since 1935. Under the law, each incoming commission is empowered to appoint its chief engineer.

Whitman said he had given "some thought" to the appointment, but the final choice would be made by agreement of the three commissioners. Whitman and Associate Commissioner P. Watson Webb are Democrats; Associate J. Glenn Beall is Republican.

Whitman and Webb, Cambridge publisher, held the new commission's first meeting yesterday. For the first time since 1935, the deliberations were closed to newspapermen.

Today, Chairman Whitman said he and Webb had discussed the question of open meetings and decided against them.

Contracts totaling $649,000 were awarded at the first closed meeting. Included was one for grading the last five miles of the east lane of the new dual Baltimore-Annapolis highway, awarded to C. J. Langenfelder and Son of a low bid of $174,221.

John H. Ensey, of Baltimore, won a $127,058 contract for grading, draining, and surfacing 2.41 miles of the new Philadelphia road from Elkton to the Delaware line.

U. S. Navy Lands Patrol in China

Troops Sent Ashore to Protect American Citizens

Shanghai, May 17 (AP)—The United States navy landed a patrol today on Kullangsu, international settlement at Amoy on the south China coast, where British and French warships also concentrated amid tension arising from Japan's occupation of Kullangsu.

Forty-three sailors were landed from the U. S. cruiser Marblehead to protect United States interests in the small island settlement.

Domestically, Japanese news agency said the British navy had taken similar action. Vice-Admiral Sir Percy Noble, commander of the British China squadron, was at Amoy watching the situation from aboard the cruiser Birmingham. Three other British warships were in port.

Hongkong dispatches said a French destroyer also was steaming for the island.

Kullangsu, in which the United States and Britain are the chief foreign powers concerned, is the first international settlement to be invaded in the Japanese-Chinese war, now nearly two years old.

Tension developed immediately with the Japanese occupation last Friday, which was carried out with the explanation that the life of the Japanese naval commander had been endangered by an incident in which a Chinese was killed. The tension increased with subsequent Japanese demands for control of the settlement and Japanese rejection yesterday of a demand by the settlement's municipal council that the occupying marines withdraw.

The Marblehead had rushed to Kullangsu from Tsingtao and joined the U. S. destroyer Bulmer there. There are seven Americans living in the settlement.

U. S. Refuses To Grant Japanese Shanghai Demand

Plea for Increased Representation in Settlement Turned Down

Washington, May 17 (AP)—The United States refused today to grant for the time being Japan's demand for increased Japanese representation in the international settlement at Shanghai.

On instructions from the state department, the American ambassador at Tokyo, Joseph C. Grew, delivered a memorandum to this effect at the Japanese foreign office at about the time American naval forces were landing at another international settlement—at Amoy.

The diplomatic communication, answering a Japanese memo of May 3, declared:

Ready to Negotiate

"The government of the United States would be ready, as it has been in the past, to become a party to friendly and orderly negotiations properly instituted and conducted regarding any needed revision in the land regulations of the international settlement at Shanghai."

"The government of the United States is constrained to point out, however, that conditions in the Shanghai area are, from its viewpoint, so far from normal at the present time that there is totally lacking a basis for a discussion looking toward an orderly settlement of the complicated problems involved which would be reasonably fair to all concerned."

The memorandum also suggested that the Japanese restore to the international settlement authorities control over the area lying north of Soochow Creek, which Japanese troops have occupied.

Praises Authorities

The communication praised the work of the international settlement authorities and summed up by saying:

"The government of the United States observed that the great cosmopolitan center of Shanghai has been developed by the nationals of many countries, to the mutual advantage of all. In this development the international settlement has played a very important part, and any question affecting the welfare or status of the settlement of inevitable concern to many countries, including the United States."

"With regard to the revision of the land regulations, the government of the United States is, as indicated above, of the opinion that this is a question which should await the development of more stable conditions."

"But with record to administrative practice in the settlement, many adjustments have been made to meet the requirements of changing conditions, and the government of the United States is confident that the settlement authorities are prepared to continue their best efforts toward meeting any reasonable request for further adjustments."

A Japanese request for a change in the status of the Chinese courts which function in the settlement was rejected along with the demand for more Japanese representation in the settlement's government.

Paid $1,300 To Fix Damage Case

Pittsburgh, May 17 (AP)—Attorney Morris G. Levy testified today he had paid former city solicitor Churchill B. Mehard $1,300 to "fix" a damage case against the city.

Levy said the money was paid out of a $7,500 settlement case awarded Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Zientara, one of 15 damage suits in which Mehard was indicted for bribery and misdemeanor in office during his six months' term.

Talking in a low voice, while a former city solicitor glared at him from a nearby seat, Levy told of discussing the matter of pending damage suits with Mehard.

Moscow Offered New Concessions By Great Britain

Fresh Effort Made To Bring Russia into Alliance

London, May 17 (AP)—The British cabinet was said by informed sources tonight to have approved a new note to Moscow offering important concessions to bring Soviet Russia into the French-British front.

Whether the note has been delivered yet was undisclosed, but Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky called at the foreign office and was said to have been told of the British proposals.

One usually well-informed source said the British message would be transmitted to Sir William Seeds, British ambassador to Moscow, tonight for communication to Yvacheslaff Molotov, Soviet premier and commissar of foreign affairs.

The foreign office spokesman said "active consultations are in progress" both in London and Moscow, but failed to mention the nature of Britain's new proposals.

The amended suggestions, however, were reported to be an advance toward the Soviet plan for a full military alliance among Britain, France and Russia, and to be designed to meet Moscow's desire for reciprocal commitments.

The new proposal envisages a Russian promise to fight for Poland, Rumania, Estonia, Latvia and Finland. In return, Britain and France would promise to go to Russia's aid if Russia went to war to fulfill these pledges.

Prime Minister Chamberlain faced a barrage of questions in the House of Commons on the status of the negotiations with Moscow, but said: "I cannot, at present, give any details."

Britain's quick action on a reply was believed to prepare the way for discussions to take place at Geneva Monday while Maisky, Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, and French Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet are there for a League of Nations council meeting.

In some quarters it was believed that a hastening of negotiations indicated a conclusive stage was being approached.

ferent from the massed demonstrations of London's teeming millions and different from the spectacular show of a Broadway ticket tape reception in New York.

The setting of the scene was too vast for that. All Quebec, and thousands of visitors, saw the white liner Empress of Australia round the bend of the river this morning with colors flying and move into Wolfe's cove, but the crowds merely dotted the great bluffs.

Many Get Closeup

In a lifetime few Londoners see their king and queen with such freedom and ease as Quebec saw them today in spite of the tightest military and police surveillance the royal mounted police could devise.

The crowds simply went out into the great open spaces along the river shore or on the cliffs above, into the parks or streets where the king and queen drove and had their fill of looking and cheering.

The royal visitors seemed to set the note for the day with an informal and unexpected appearance on the promenade deck of the Empress of Australia as soon as she tied up at Wolfe's cove.

Although garbed in the brilliant splendor of a British admiral, King George came to the rail with the queen and waved as if they were passengers home from a pleasure cruise.

Shake Hands with Officers

With the ship already two days late because of ice, fog and storms, Queen Elizabeth added four minutes more to the delay of the landing by stopping with the king to shake hands and say good bye to officers and men of the liner that brought them safely to their American dominion.

Canada's first view of Queen Elizabeth was of a smiling, happy woman at the ship rail dressed all in gray—gray shoes, stockings, tailored costume and off-the-face hat. Observers differed about the exact shade of gray. The hat wasn't turned up, or a full halo, but just off-the-face.

So crowded was the program that visitors had but few minutes rest between functions and Queen Elizabeth wore the same outfit from breakfast through to dinner where she appeared in her evening costume.

The King rushed out of his admiral's uniform and hat for luncheon, appearing in formal morning attire for the occasion of the first address a British king ever made on North American soil.

King's First Address

"I realize that this moment is historic," he said. Enunciating each word slowly and distinctly, he addressed the first part of his speech to Prime Minister Mackenzie King in French and concluded in French for Quebec's French Canadians.

The luncheon party of nearly 300 guests at the Chateau Frontenac gave him an ovation when he sat down.

From the Hon. R. Dandurand, leader of the Canadian government forces in the Ottawa Senate, to whom the French part of the address was made, came the exclamation "Vive Le Roi"—"Long Live the King"—and much gesticulation of approval that was not Anglo-Saxon.

Virginia Mines Reopening Under Union Contracts

Nearly 7,500 Men Called Back in Five Counties

Norton, Va., May 17 (AP)—Operators of coal mines in five southwest Virginia counties, with a few exceptions, signed a union shop contract with the United Mine Workers of America today and called back to work nearly 7,500 miners, idle since April 1.

The Virginia producers were the fifth of six groups to accept the Appalachian agreement negotiated in New York May 12, after withdrawing from the conference. The sixth are the Harlan, Ky., operators.

Employers of another 7,500 Virginia miners previously had signed the same basic agreement to cover mines in Buchanan county and some in Tazewell county, both bordering West Virginia.

Today's agreement, covering miners in Wise, Lee, Dickinson, Russell and Tazewell counties, was signed following a closed meeting of the Virginia operators, which was the most largely attended in years.

Three Alternatives

George H. Esser, spokesman for the producers, said that under the circumstances "we had three alternatives: to sign the agreement, to attempt to operate on a non-union basis, or to close our mines indefinitely."

"All except the first course would have constituted economic suicide," he said, "and we therefore elected the only course open to us."

John Saxton, president of district 28 of the U. M. W., said that "our men have been peaceful throughout the controversy, and are glad to return to work."

All but two mine companies belonging to the Virginia Coal Operators' Association, and six non-members, signed.

One Company Unsigned

One of the members that did not sign, the Virginia Iron, Coal and Coke Co., agreed to the basic terms of the contract, but deferred signing pending clarification of technical details in its local contracts. The other, the Clinchfield Coal Corp., with operations at Clinchco and Dante has never signed a union contract.

Another company, Ruth Elkhorn Coals, Inc., at Steinman, was understood to have already begun work although it had not signed a contract.

Saxton, who signed the agreement, said it contained the "union shop" clause, which requires a promise to join the union as a qualification for employment.

A Virginia district contract, based upon and including the Appalachian agreement signed by other operators in New York last week, and also containing an interpretation of the union shop clause as a guide in settling personnel problems in this field, will be signed later to complete today's agreement.

The new contract contains the same wages and hours provisions as the preceding agreement, which ran for two years until terminated April 1.

King's address was his tribute to North America where, he said, in the last two centuries "through loss and through gain, the British commonwealth of nations has been largely moulded into its present form."

In a great popular demonstration at Battleground Park, after the luncheon, 25,000 massed school children sang "God Save the King" in French. This was on the Plains of Abraham where Wolfe fell in the battle in 1759 which made Canada a part of the British Empire.

Allegany County To Get $13,432 In Tax Refunds

O'Connor Signs 104 Acts, 29 of Them State-wide

Annapolis, May 17 (AP)—Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor tonight signed 104 acts of the 1939 legislature, including the statewide bills returning $357,234 in lateral gas tax funds to the counties and reforming the state magistrates' system.

Twenty-nine of the measures were statewide in character. The remainder were local measures, headed by a number of bond issue bills.

Reform of the magistrates' courts provides for a reduction of the number of magistrates in the counties and abolishes the fee system. Magistrates will henceforward be paid a regular salary, depending on the size of their districts.

The lateral gas tax refund will benefit all counties in the state. Receipts on the 1½ per cent lateral gas tax exceeded expectations and the excess will be returned to the counties on a pro rata basis computed on the ratio county road mileage bears to the state's road mileage.

$13,432 for Allegany

Among the county refunds are: Allegany, $13,432; Frederick, $29,795; Garrett, $18,898; Montgomery, $19,899; Prince Georges, $17,343; and Washington, $19,577.

The governor also signed H. B. 379, which returns future lateral gas tax collections to the counties for road maintenance. The counties ceded their rights to the state in 1935 and the present measure returns the set-up to its prior status.

The bill defining and clarifying issuance of liquor sales licenses, forbidding minors to work in the establishments and reserving the issuance of distributors' licenses to the state, won gubernatorial approval.

Oyster License Cut

The license fee for oyster tongs was cut from $5 to $3.50 annually.

Washington, D. C., coal dealers were given the right to deliver in Maryland if their load weights are certified by district weightmasters. License fees for motorcycles and motorized bicycles were fixed at 32 cents a horsepower.

House bill 311, "The Truth in Real Estate Advertising" measure, was signed.

The state police pension bill fixing a minimum pension of $1,000 annually and boosting the levy on salaries from 2 per cent to 3½ per cent was signed. Another measure fixes sick leave and vacation regulations for merit system employees.

Responsibility of hotels and inns for property loss by guests was limited in another signed bill.

House resolution No. 18, requesting the governor annually to designate the second Sunday in May as Mothers' Day was approved.

Votes Against Roosevelt Proposal for Navy Purchase

Washington, May 17 (AP)—A record peace time naval appropriation of $773,049,151 reached the Senate floor today bearing a committee endorsement of a House-approved clause forbidding the navy to buy Argentine canned beef.

By a 9 to 7 show of hands, the Appropriation Committee voted to retain the beef prohibition which resulted from the controversy between President Roosevelt and western legislators over a 48,000-pound order of the product.

Mr. Roosevelt described Argentine canned beef as superior to American, and naval officials urged the Senate committee to remove the restriction, inserted by the House before it approved the appropriation.

Quick Approval Expected

The Senate is expected to give prompt approval to the huge supply bill, which contains funds for two 45,000-ton battleships, 21 other warships and auxiliaries and 500 fighting planes.

Other defense developments included:

1. The army announced that 1,000 enlisted men would be given a year's training at seven selected civilian schools to meet some of the immediate needs for aviation mechanics in the expanding air corps. Similarly, pilots will be given primary flying experience at nine private schools.

2. A report to the Senate Appropriations Committee by naval officials showed construction of a new 14,500-ton aircraft carrier was lagging more than 16 months behind schedule. Work on most of 73 other ships was reported to be on time or ahead of schedule.

3. The army estimated that 293,996 regulars, national guardsmen, reserve officers, members of the Student Reserve Officers Training Corps, and civilians would be given intensive summer military training in 131 camps. Last year, with more funds available, 298,153 were trained.

4. An order by Admiral Claude C. Bloch, fleet commander in chief, directed that unfavorable as well as favorable news on the fleet and shore stations be reported promptly.

Riots Follow Drastic Order In Palestine

over the five years which is now contemplated has taken place they will not be justified in facilitating, nor will they be under any obligation to facilitate, the further development of the Jewish national home by immigration."

It was a bitter day for Jews, who have worked for years for a national home in Palestine and a place of refuge there for scores of thousands of their race forced from Germany and other central European states.

Jewish leaders announced they would refuse to cooperate in any way with the British program, forecasting critical days in the future of Palestine.

"The Jewish people regard this breach of faith as a surrender to Arab terrorism," said the Jewish agency's statement.

"It delivers Great Britain's friends into the hands of those who are fighting her. It must widen the breach between Jews and Arabs and undermine the hope of peace in Palestine."

"It is the darkest hour of Jewish history that the British government proposes to deprive Jews of their last hope and to close their road back to their homeland."

"The Jews will never accept the closing against them of the gates of Palestine nor let their national home be converted into a ghetto."

Should Jewish immigrants succeed in entering the country, their number will be deducted from the yearly immigration quotas. Thousands of refugees from Europe have been turned back in recent months.

Holy Land Cut Off From Radio Broadcast

Jerusalem, May 17 (AP)—Sabotage today prevented the heavily guarded Holy Land from hearing on scheduled time the broadcast of the British government's faithful declaration on Palestine policy as Jews prepared a nation-wide protest against creation of an Arab-dominated state.

Lines between the radio transmitting station at Ramallah and the Jerusalem studio were cut just as it began to put on the air a summary of the British white paper released in London.

Postal officials worked hard to restore the lines before the official closing time of the station at 10 P. M. Telephoned inquiries from the whole countryside poured in when the station suddenly went dead just as the Arabic announcer was beginning his summary.

Jews in Haifa had planned after the broadcast to carry out a ceremonial burning of the white paper on the grounds of the Haifa technical college.

They had planned to read a statement of the Jewish agency opposing the British plan and at the same time pledge themselves to "fight to the last" against execution of the new policy.

Meanwhile, the Jewish population closed down all public activity, and by order of the chief rabbi prepared to observe tomorrow as a day of fast and prayer.

Germany Taking Census To Help Secure Control

(By The Associated Press)

Berlin, May 17 (AP)—Germany today tightened her military defenses and carried out a census which will enable her to increase her control over the lives of her people.

Military precautions were especially in evidence along the "western wall" of fortifications where Chancellor Hitler continued his tour of inspection and at the Port of Hamburg.

Minorities Concerned

Various minorities within the greater Reich were deeply concerned in the outcome of the great enumeration of population.

These were the day's principal developments:

1. Hitler examined water traps for tanks and other fortifications in the Saar region on the German-French frontier.

2. Orders were issued for a blackout in the harbor of Hamburg Friday and Saturday nights to test defense against air attack, a highly unusual action since it will affect international shipping.

3. Seven hundred fifty thousand volunteer census takers began an enumeration of the Reich's population in which foreign nationality groups were being asked whether they "feel themselves to be German."

4. Ex-Chancellor Von Papen, ambassador to Turkey, made his report on that country's adherence to the British-French front.

5. Denmark cautiously accepted Hitler's offer to negotiate a non-aggression pact, while the ministers of Finland, Sweden and Norway told the Berlin government they did not consider such pacts necessary.

A semi-official German commentary said these three polite "noes" actually were a disavowal of President Roosevelt's intervention of April 14, in which he asked Hitler for pledges of non-aggression against 31 states.

For Germans the census starting today meant a routine questionnaire the answers to which may, however, determine the work they should be doing to serve the state most efficiently. Officials said census data would be used to show which callings or branches of labor were overcrowded and which needed more workers.

Best Engineer in Country Sought To Fill Smith's Job

Baltimore, May 17 (AP)—Chief Engineer Nathaniel L. Smith's $8,000 job with the state roads commission was thrown open today to "the best engineer in the country."

Roads Chairman Ezra B. Whitman disclosed no formal action had been taken by Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor's newly-appointed commission to replace Smith, but he added:

Smith, a Republican, has served since 1935. Under the law, each incoming commission is empowered to appoint its chief engineer.

Whitman said he had given "some thought" to the appointment, but the final choice would be made by agreement of the three commissioners. Whitman and Associate Commissioner P. Watson Webb are Democrats; Associate J. Glenn Beall is Republican.

Whitman and Webb, Cambridge publisher, held the new commission's first meeting yesterday. For the first time since 1935, the deliberations were closed to newspapermen.

Today, Chairman Whitman said he and Webb had discussed the question of open meetings and decided against them.

Contracts totaling $649,000 were awarded at the first closed meeting. Included was one for grading the last five miles of the east lane of the new dual Baltimore-Annapolis highway, awarded to C. J. Langenfelder and Son of a low bid of $174,221.

John H. Ensey, of Baltimore, won a $127,058 contract for grading, draining, and surfacing 2.41 miles of the new Philadelphia road from Elkton to the Delaware line.

U. S. Navy Lands Patrol in China

Shanghai, May 17 (AP)—The United States navy landed a patrol today on Kullangsu, international settlement at Amoy on the south China coast, where British and French warships also concentrated amid tension arising from Japan's occupation of Kullangsu.

Thirty-three sailors were landed from the U. S. cruiser Marblehead to protect United States interests in the small island settlement.

Domel, Japanese news agency, said the British navy had taken similar action. Vice-Admiral Sir Percy Noble, commander of the British China squadron, was at Amoy watching the situation from aboard the cruiser Birmingham. Three other British warships were in port.

Hongkong dispatches said a French destroyer also was steaming for the island.

Kullangsu, in which the United States and Britain are the chief foreign powers concerned, is the first international settlement to be invaded in the Japanese-Chinese war, now nearly two years old.

Tension developed immediately with the Japanese occupation last Friday, which was carried out with the explanation that the life of the Japanese naval commander had been endangered by an incident in which a Chinese was killed. The tension increased with subsequent Japanese demands for control of the settlement and Japanese rejection yesterday of a demand by the settlement's municipal council that the occupying marines withdraw.

The Marblehead had rushed to Kullangsu from Tsingtao and joined the U. S. destroyer Bulmer there. There are seven Americans living in the settlement.

Treatment of Blood Diseases . . . No. 2

Anemias Benefited by Liver, Iron

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I was shocked the other day to receive a letter from a man living not far from a thriving modern city who said his wife had pernicious anemia and that his doctors had told there was no cure for it.

It seemed like a missive from the Dark Ages. It seems impossible that any modern doctor could make such a statement. It seems even more impossible that any doctor who could make the diagnosis could make the statement; yet, there it is.

I wrote my correspondent as quickly as possible and said that of course there was a cure for pernicious anemia, which has been proved and which is simply the feeding of liver a few ounces a day.

Known for 15 Years
This has been known to all doctors (at least all in my acquaintance) for nearly 15 years, since it was announced by Whipple, Minot and Murphy.

The action of the liver goes back to the principles which we examined in the article yesterday, that the red cells of the blood are, in health, always the same in quantity in all kinds of people—young and old, big and little. The red cells are formed in the bone marrow, and when the bone marrow ceases to function or reduces its activities, there are fewer red cells and that, of course, is what is known as anemia.

The use of liver in pernicious anemia is specific. In very few instances is liver itself used, but an extract of liver is used. This is a salty brown substance much like granulated brown sugar in appearance. It is pleasant to taste.

Won't "Cure" It
The use of liver extract will not "cure" pernicious anemia, but the regular use of it will keep the case healthy and comfortable. When he-lapses occur, they are usually due to the patient thinking himself so well he can get along without the extract and discontinuing its use.

In periods of ill-health—especially minor infections, such as a cold—it is necessary to increase the amount taken every day.
The other medical agent which is of great benefit in the anemias is iron. But it is not beneficial in pernicious anemia. It is used in anemias of a different type. For instance, after a large hemorrhage iron is valuable in restoring the blood volume. It stimulates the marrow but in a different way.

Old Remedy
Iron is an old, old remedy which has been given to pale (that is, anemic) patients for ages. But it fell into almost universal disuse about 50 years ago, and for two curious reasons. One of the common forms of anemia is that in young girls, called green sickness. Its technical name is "chlorosis." It was very common 50 years ago, when the world was not so well nourished as it is today, but in these times it is quite a rarity. In the old days chlorosis could be cured absolutely with very small doses of iron. When it disappeared doctors kept giving iron to anemia patients but in the same small dose, and they found it did no good. It was only recently, when it was discovered that to be effective iron has to be given in very large doses, that it became popular in practice again.

So we have these two medical remedies for anemia, liver and iron. You see preparations on the market which contain both, but such shotgun mixtures are unscientific. When a patient needs liver extract, we give him liver alone, and when he needs iron, we give him iron alone.

Treasurer of Fidelity Investment Dies

Wheeling, W. Va., May 17 (P)—Frederick J. Weis, treasurer of the Fidelity Investment Association died last night. He was born in Albany, N. Y., 54 years ago.

Weis came to Wheeling in 1922 and became connected with the $8,000,000 association, Federal Judge William E. Baker last January denied a receivership petition filed against the concern.

Reformed Church Treasurer Resigns

Reading, Pa., May 17. (P)—An element of surprise was injected into the first business session of the one-hundred ninety-sixth annual session of the Eastern synod of the Reformed church meeting in Old Bion church, Maxatawny, when the Rev. Dr. Thomas H. Leimbach, pastor of St. John's Reformed church, reading, announced his retirement as treasurer.

Dr. Leimbach who served as treasurer for many years, gave ill health as his reason for refusing to accept the nomination for reelection. Charles P. Schaeffer, cashier of the Womelsdorf Bank and Trust Company, was elected as the new treasurer.

It Must Not Be Neglected

YOUR BEAUTY teacher harps often on dry skins because so many of the students bawl about that beauty sorrow. It is something that should not be neglected; conditions can get so bad that powder goes on in streaks and patches, rouge stands out like a sore thumb.

Sometimes we'll know more about the causes of this condition. Diet may have something to do with it. Some beauty specialists recommend cod liver oil in regular daily doses. Be fussy about soap. A soap that will be friends with one complexion may fight another one. There is a way to use suds on the face that has the wildest phobia against them. Use a cleansing cream first, let it remain on, soap a washcloth, pass lightly over the flesh.

Avoid astringents which are for oily portraits. Select a powder with an oily base, and don't grind it in. A flaking skin is suffering from a mild state of dermatitis, doesn't like to be treated roughly. Use creams and cleansing oils freely. Lubricate the skin before going to bed, let the fragrant emollient remain on over night. The flesh will feast upon it and be glad.

For the tailored type, to whom the long bob has never been friendly, the high hairdo is a blessing. It suits her style exactly. One reason why the cuties object to it is that it makes them look sedate and matronly.

White Orchids

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

By MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

Eleanor's telephone was a French blue with a band of silver. It was but a detail in the perfect early eighteenth century bedroom that was all soft and orchid tones. The blue drapes were drawn to keep the gray December morning from a fire glowing in the hearth. It was warm shadows across the orchid carpet and struck highlights on the satin puff at the head of Eleanor's bed. It flashed the silver of the breakfast tray on her lap.

She tossed an ash-blond braid over her shoulder impatiently and answered at the telephone that she was in her hand. But her voice was cool and quite charming. She said: "What a pleasant surprise to you in person, Mr. Hemingway. My husband and I were talking about you last night. We were hoping that you'd join us for dinner soon."

The last person in the world that Eleanor wanted to talk to was John Hemingway. She'd been dodging him for months, but she had to be to him even if she wouldn't write an article for his magazine. She didn't know how to handle people like that. If only Phil wouldn't go foolishly proud, sticking to his job when she needed all his help. Phil would have known just what to say to Hemingway. She remembered: "Please let's not talk business on the telephone, Mr. Hemingway. Why don't you and I come to dinner tomorrow? . . . That will be perfect. . . . Of course. . . . Goodbye." She hung up the instrument and wrote a quick note on a pad beside the table. Phil would know whom to write to engage Hemingway's services and let her off any embarrassment.

The door opened and her secretary came in. "Good morning, Mrs. Parrish. Ready to start the Christmas shopping if you'll okay Mr. Parrish's list." She gave a long list to Eleanor.

She said: "Did you order the car? It would take you too much to travel by taxi. What's this? . . . bottles of Napoleon brandy. Mr. Tannenbaum? Who's Tannenbaum?"

The new head of the story department at Mammoth Pictures, Mrs. Parrish. Mr. Parrish said: "Eleanor read through the list. Sports items, a golf club, electric train, her vanity with monogram. It's Phil's list of presents to be to editors and contact people. He said: 'Mr. Parrish knows about this than I do. I guess he's all right. What's the program for today?'"

The typists will have the Christmas story ready for you by five. You're speaking at the Ladies' Women's club luncheon at one. I have everything for you to work until six. Mr. Parrish is bringing Mr. Casey to see you and you're going to the Russian Ballet tonight."

"Thank you, Lucy."

"Mrs. Parrish . . . I wanted to know if he could come in when you've finished that. And Miss Jessica would like to see you before she goes to school."

Eleanor gave her tray to the maid. "All right. Tell them to come in."

Any came in with a spot of egg on her chin.

non-inflammable and is one of the safest solvents. If any others are used, the containers should never be opened where there is a flame or fire of any kind. Even the pilot light on a gas stove or a lighted cigarette may cause gasoline or other inflammable cleaning fluids to explode.

As with most stains, success in getting out those made by cod-liver oil depends on speed of action. Dip the stained area up and down in a small bowl of carbon tetrachloride and rub between the hands, working the oil out as completely as possible. Squeeze and let dry. Then wash in lukewarm suds and rinse well. The main thing is not to delay.

If a cod-liver stain is old and set, very little can be done to get it out. Sometimes stains on white cotton or linen can be bleached with javelle water, or sodium perborate, which is milder. The article must be rinsed immediately after using a bleach. White wool or silk is better treated with peroxide of hydrogen and then washed in lukewarm suds and rinsed in water of the same temperature.

Combat Inferiority Complex By Removing Child's Fear

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

A teacher writes from Iowa:

"Dear Dr. Myers: You spoke before our teachers association two years ago and because I think you can help me. I am writing for some advice."

"We have a senior boy who has and inferiority complex due to extreme bashfulness and multiplied a thousand-fold because he has just returned to our school this year after having spent 14 months in our State Reformatory for Boys. (We feel that he really received unjust treatment in being sent there. He seems to be a god fellow, no discipline problem at all, and the group and teachers accept him and respect him.)"

"Now the problem of fear is entering into the picture. At the change of the semester he was enrolled in two courses, Salesmanship and English, which require oral reports and talks standing up before the class. I do not teach either of these classes, but have gained his confidence, having had him last semester in my work. During the past two weeks he has been staying away from school, but I have succeeded in talking with him and he has confessed that he simply cannot get on his feet before the classes."

"I have spent considerable time off and on talking to him about building self-confidence in himself, and explaining that we all have this fear and only through experience can we hope to overcome it. Just now he is facing an assignment of a big sales talk, and after I thought I had him to the point where he could give it, he couldn't face the issue and only because I telephoned

"Suppose that you and I were to take this afternoon off and shop for . . . oh . . . something in a white satin dress that you could wear to the dinner dance at school on Friday? Would that be a guarantee that I really need your advice?"

Jessica hesitated for a moment. Then the vision of something keen in white satin, with a train, if possible, floated before her eyes. She said: "What is it that you want me to help you put over on Daddy?"

Eleanor laughed merrily. "Put over? Silly child, I want to do something for Daddy. I don't want him going to that ridiculous office and working so hard. Besides, I need him. I want him to give up his job and make us his full-time job."

"I can tell you how, Mummmie, if you'd listen. It's simple. All you have to do is to tell him that you can't get along without him, and that you'll give up entirely if he won't."

Eleanor said "Hm-mm-mm," very thoughtfully. She hadn't thought of that.

Proper Pruning Means More Blooms

By DEAN HALLIDAY

If because of the backwardness of Spring you are just about to plant new roses, do not forget that proper pruning at planting time means more blooms.

Before planting, prune the rose bush of all weak or crossed branches, leaving three or four of the strongest canes. These should be trimmed back to about 4 or 6 inches as shown by the black lines in the Garden-Graph.

After the bushes are planted soil should be mounded over them as shown in the illustration. Mounding is important, as it keeps the branches moist until the roots become established.

After the new shoots start, the mounded soil can be taken down a little at a time. When removing the soil be careful not to break off the new shoots.

Coal Companies Scrap over Bill

Independents Charge Major Operators Seek to Ruin Them

Scranton, Pa., May 17 (AP)—Warfare has broken out between independent and old-line coal companies over House bill 1221, which has been reported out of committee in the state house of representatives in Harrisburg.

The independents, in newspaper advertisements, are openly charging the Glen Alden and other major producers with attempting to legislate the small operators out of business.

The immediate effect of the fight has been the cut of seventy-five cents per ton in coal prices, reports in coal circles said. The major producers, it was reported, have expressed determination to meet every price quoted by the independents. No matter how low.

"This bill," the advertisements of the independent operators state, "provides unfair allocation of production for the smaller companies and at the same time opens the door to big concerns like the Glen Alden to increase their output. Independent companies, some of which worked 270 days last year, would be compelled to work as low as 90 days this year. The same law would enable the Glen Alden, which produced fifteen per cent of all anthracite tonnage last year, to increase its production to 18.7 per cent of the tonnage this year. This at the expense of the independent operator and his employees."

The independents of Wyoming and Lackawanna counties lay claim to employing 38,000 men of the 96,662 workers in the industry in 1938.

Survey Shows General Approval Of the New Conservation Setup

Annapolis, May 17 (Special)—An extended survey of both Maryland and Virginia's Tidewater country, just now completed, reveals general approval of Governor Herbert R. O'Connor's move in abolishing the superannuated conservation commission, and establishing in its place a commission of fisheries, and a state game and inland fish commission.

The people whose living depends upon the bay particularly praise the governor's recognition of the fisheries problem as being an economic one, which demands immediate action towards marketing the bay's seafood at prices profitable to the now-starving industry. The old conservation commission, they say, still functioned in the manner of past generations and allowed the bay industries to "flounder along" totally unconscious of the lapse of time, and of the new marketing and competitive conditions the industry must face today.

People now days, they contend, demand modern packages of seafood—and they will respond to interesting publicity regarding the necessity in the diet of certain minerals and vitamins found in abundance in the Chesapeake's products. The old commission, they complain, gave no help or encouragement to the industry to adapt itself to modern distribution of fresh foods, through rapid transportation and vastly improved refrigeration. Nor, apparently, did it realize the necessity of well-directed advertising, to assist seafood to get its share of the highly competitive food market, which is crowded with other food products, produced under strict standards and sold profitably with the aid of huge advertising campaigns.

Back to Prosperity
Governor O'Connor's program, they point out, expresses his determination that the commission of fisheries shall lead the industry back to prosperity. With the abandonment of the outdated oyster navy set-up, and the installation of a modern mechanism of law enforcement, together with an efficient method of collecting the important statistical information vital to all great enterprises, the commission will be able to do many things for the industry that have been impossible heretofore.

It will be able to cooperate in seeking the best methods of preparing and packing the products. It will furnish every opportunity to take advantage of modern means of distribution; and it will establish a collective advertising program to profitably publicize the Bay's seafood. All of which activities, centered under the leadership of the commission, will again make the public conscious of the necessity of seafood—Maryland seafood—in the well-balanced diet.

Virginia's Help Needed

Another point of great importance deals with cooperation with our sister state of Virginia, with which close and continued harmony is absolutely imperative if Maryland is to "get anywhere" with even the most carefully thought-out bay conservation program. Our efforts heretofore, for instance, to stop Virginia's sponge-crabbing, so detrimental to the Maryland crab industry, have been fruitless, for many reasons, mainly political. Virginia also controls the supply of finfish in the Chesapeake bay, by its control of the entrance to the bay. Not until some mutual cooperation is established will the Chesapeake Bay again become filled with fish.

The survey of the Tidewater counties showed beyond a doubt that Virginia's fisheries, as well as members of its government, entertain high hopes that now at last a feasible plan for joint action will be accomplished; and they were kind enough to express their wholehearted willingness to do their part towards bringing about a satisfactory working agreement, profitable to the industry of both states.

Sportsmen Will Rule

With respect to the new state game and inland fish commission, what it does it to provide that all present game and fish laws shall remain intact, but that the affairs of this section shall be taken from the control of the commission that handles and directs tidewater affairs. It provides for a commission of five non-salaried members to be appointed by Governor O'Connor on June 1, 1939, for terms of one, two, three, four and five years respectively, and thereafter for five-year terms.

Under the bill, no one is eligible for appointment as commissioner unless he has a hunter's or an angler's license and unless he shall be well informed on the subject of wild life conservation and restoration, especially water-fowl, birds, game, furbearing animals and inland fishes. The bill provides that the commissioners shall appoint a state game warden, but stipulates that the first state game warden, appointed as of June 1, 1939, shall be the present state game warden, and that he and all of his subordinates continue under the merit system.

Grand Jury Declines To Investigate Palmer Kidnaping

Los Angeles, May 17 (AP)—The county grand jury has declined to study the George Palmer Putnam kidnaping case but detectives said they would continue their investigation.

Captain of Detectives Dalton Patton said the grand jury refused his request that the publisher and two business associates be summoned.

Putnam was found bound and gagged at Bakersfield early last Saturday. He said two men kidnaped him and demanded the names of the authors of an anti-Nazi book he had published.

Construction of Dirigible Postponed

Washington, May 17 (AP)—At President Roosevelt's request, the Navy has postponed indefinitely construction of the dirigible which congress authorized last year amid much controversy.

Mr. Roosevelt said that doubt had been cast on the safety of the 325-foot airship on which the Navy had asked bids. He already had decided against building a $3,000,000 craft, of triple this size, authorized by congress.

For these reasons, Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference, he had informed Secretary Swanson it would be better not to undertake the dirigible at all.

Navy officials accepted the announcement as meaning indefinite abandonment of experiments with lighter-than-air craft such as the ill-fated Akron and Macon.

Earlier in the day, a Senate Appropriations committee struck from the Naval Supply bill for the next fiscal year a $500,000 fund for construction of the craft.

Another point of great importance deals with cooperation with our sister state of Virginia, with which close and continued harmony is absolutely imperative if Maryland is to "get anywhere" with even the most carefully thought-out bay conservation program. Our efforts heretofore, for instance, to stop Virginia's sponge crabbing, so detrimental to the Maryland crab industry, have been fruitless, for many reasons, mainly political. Virginia also controls the supply of finfish in the Chesapeake bay, by its control of the entrance to the bay. Not until some mutual cooperation is established will the Chesapeake Bay again become filled with fish.

The survey of the Tidewater counties showed beyond a doubt that Virginia's fisheries, as well as members of its government, entertain high hopes that now at last a feasible plan for joint action will be accomplished; and they were kind enough to express their wholehearted willingness to do their part towards bringing about a satisfactory working agreement, profitable to the industry of both states.

Sportsmen Will Rule

With respect to the new state game and inland fish commission, what it does it to provide that all present game and fish laws shall remain intact, but that the affairs of this section shall be taken from the control of the commission that handles and directs tidewater affairs. It provides for a commission of five non-salaried members to be appointed by Governor O'Connor on June 1, 1939, for terms of one, two, three, four and five years respectively, and thereafter for five-year terms.

Under the bill, no one is eligible for appointment as commissioner unless he has a hunter's or an angler's license and unless he shall be well informed on the subject of wild life conservation and restoration, especially water-fowl, birds, game, furbearing animals and inland fishes. The bill provides that the commissioners shall appoint a state game warden, but stipulates that the first state game warden, appointed as of June 1, 1939, shall be the present state game warden, and that he and all of his subordinates continue under the merit system.

Grand Jury Declines To Investigate Palmer Kidnaping

Los Angeles, May 17 (AP)—The county grand jury has declined to study the George Palmer Putnam kidnaping case but detectives said they would continue their investigation.

Captain of Detectives Dalton Patton said the grand jury refused his request that the publisher and two business associates be summoned.

Putnam was found bound and gagged at Bakersfield early last Saturday. He said two men kidnaped him and demanded the names of the authors of an anti-Nazi book he had published.

Construction of Dirigible Postponed

Washington, May 17 (AP)—At President Roosevelt's request, the Navy has postponed indefinitely construction of the dirigible which congress authorized last year amid much controversy.

Mr. Roosevelt said that doubt had been cast on the safety of the 325-foot airship on which the Navy had asked bids. He already had decided against building a $3,000,000 craft, of triple this size, authorized by congress.

For these reasons, Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference, he had informed Secretary Swanson it would be better not to undertake the dirigible at all.

Navy officials accepted the announcement as meaning indefinite abandonment of experiments with lighter-than-air craft such as the ill-fated Akron and Macon.

Earlier in the day, a Senate Appropriations committee struck from the Naval Supply bill for the next fiscal year a $500,000 fund for construction of the craft.

Play Scoreless Ball From Ninth; Mamulis's Hero

Longest Game In National Since 1932 Ends In 9-9 Deadlock

Plants Have Two Big Innings To Defeat Cards

By 9 to 5

Chicago, May 17 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers and Chicago Cubs tried to throw away their ball game but in the ninth inning defied to keep it played to a 9-9 tie before darkness closed in the end of 19 innings.

It was the longest game in the national league since August 17, 1932 when the Cubs beat Boston
2 to 1 in 19 innings.

With most of the game's nine innings figuring in the big scoring innings, the Dodgers bunched three runs in the fourth, one in the fifth and four in the sixth while the Cubs distributed their runs two in the third and fourth and one in the fifth.

The tying run was scored by the Dodgers in the ninth inning when, with two out, Ernie Koy singled and the Coscarart doubled.

The only time a runner for either team got to third in the long overtime game was in the 19th when Bill Bartlett doubled and advanced a wild pitch, but Higbe managed to retire the side.

At the end of 19 innings, the game was tied 9-9. The game was suspended at that time and will be resumed at a later date.

Cincinnati Takes Second Place by Defeating Boston

Buck Walters Hurls Seven Hit Ball; Goodman
Slams Homer

Cincinnati, May 17 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds took over second place in the National League today, defeating Boston 6 to 1 behind Bucky Walters' seven-hit hurling in a game otherwise marked by two hit batsmen and an umpire's protests over alleged use of Freddie Frank-house of the long-barred "Spit-ball."

Ival Goodman's fourth home-run of the year in the third, which also scored Frey, launched the Reds' re-scoring. Walters, walking four, struck out six and fed only two extra-base blows including one triple to Al Simmons in the ninth.
The Reds meantime, combed two of three Boston hurriers for 12 safeties.

Roman Boy Wins Feature Event At Charles Town

Nice Prices Paid In Seventh and Eighth Races

On Program

Charles Town, W. Va., May 17 (AP)— P. H. Faulconer's Roman Boy, which showed great early speed in recent races in Maryland, delighted a crowd of 3,000 that had made him the favorite in the Hancock feature of today's Charles Town card.

Roman Boy stepped the four and a half furlongs in 50 seconds and paid $4 straight.

The crowd was the second largest of the meeting. Wagering and attendance are far ahead of any meeting since 1933, when racing with pari-mutuel betting was legalized.

Parking ticket, owned by Mrs. M.
Nelson Bond of Baltimore opened the card by running four and a half furlongs in 50 3-5. The winning daily double combination of E. C.
Moyer's Balkanes and Mrs. E. R.
Mitchell's Unlimited paid $26.80.

One casualty turned up during the day. Jockey Frank Stewart suffered a fractured left hand when thrown by Quick Vine at a morning workout.

No parlay, no laundry! One win, one in the ash can. Another crack at a combination today. Maybe I'll be out of the dirty shirt brigade tomorrow.
It all depends on Eva R. and Stephen Jay at Suffolk Downs.
Bring home my laundry to me!

Saddle Strap Sam's Postscript to P.P.

I didn't mean to cross you up by picking "Lourdes" in the same race in which you picked "Boston Pal" to win yesterday but as long as "Boston Pal" won and "Lourdes" ran second to pay 15 something...
I call that all right by both of us. The other wins considered and among other things is the fact that all those big time selectors we checked last night, the only winner they had was your Boston Pal. Not one of them got that $33.60 "Maestrun" on top or "On the Dot" or "Griewark" or "Balkanes" or "Sailor Beware" or "Pay D." or "Last Message" or "Buck Head" or "Merry Pete".
That wasn't a bad night's work considering what a little part of the night-before-last you gave to yesterday's races. The only reason I ain't blowing your horn now is because I want to horn in and blow my own.

Pearson Pitches Yanks to 7 to 3 Win over Browns

World Champions Run String of Consecutive Victories to Seven

New York, May 17 (AP)—The World Champion Yankees stretched their string of victories to seven today with a 4 to 3 conquest of the St. Louis Browns on Monte Pearson's four hit hurling.

It was the fourth win for the New York curve ball specialist, who has yet to be defeated. Although he was wild and frequently in trouble because of the six passes he issued, Pearson tightened in the pinches and subdued all the visitors except Mel Almada and Myril Hoag.

This pair put together two doubles for a run in the first inning and singled and doubled behind a walk to Vernon Kennedy for two more runs and the remainder of St. Louis' hits in the second.

Officials Named For Meet Here Saturday

Everything Set For CVAL Meet Here Saturday

Six Teams To Compete In 15th Annual Track and Field Events

Dozen Records, Two Held By AHS, Will Be Under Assault

Everything is in readiness for the fifteenth annual Cumberland Valley Athletic League track and field meet to be held Saturday at the Fort Hill stadium, according to Sentinel Coach John J. Long, in charge of arrangements.

The meet will find six schools competing—Allegheny and Fort Hill of Cumberland, Handley of Winchester, Va., Martinsburg, Hagerstown, and Waynesboro (Pa.) High. The program will get under way at 1 o'clock with the running of the 100-yard dash heats.

With most of the schools expected to be represented by squads just as strong if not stronger than in 1938, several records may be broken or equalled. No marks were established or tied last spring.

Handley athletes have hung up five of the records, Martinsburg boys three, Allegheny two and Hagerstown and Waynesboro each one. Three marks were set in 1937 when Miller of Martinsburg hurled the javelin 176 feet, six and one-half inches, Campbell of Handley ran the 440 in 53.4 seconds, and Flickinger of Handley soared over the bar in the pole vault event at 11 feet, five and one-quarter inches.

Clark, Buckle Hold AHS Marks

Allegheny's two records were established by Don Buckle in 1935 and Fred "Track" Clark in 1931. Buckle ran the mile in 4:51.1 and Clark cleared 22 feet, two inches in the broad jump. The other records follow:

Shot put—Set by Dunlap of Handley in 1932. Forty-seven feet, nine and one-half inches.

High jump—Set by Flickinger of Handley in 1932. Five feet, seven and one-quarter inches.

100-yard dash—Set by Bowers of Martinsburg in 1933. Ten seconds.

Discus throw—Set by Dunlap of Handley in 1932. One hundred and twenty-eight feet, four and one-half inches.

220-yard dash—Set by Klipp, Hagerstown, in 1935. Twenty-two and four-fifths seconds.

880-yard run—Set by Hankle, Martinsburg, in 1927. Two minutes, four and two-fifths seconds.

Mile relay—Set by Waynesboro in 1931. Three minutes, 38 seconds.

Handley Defending Champion

Last year here, Handley High won five of 12 possible firsts to capture the meet with 39 points. The Judges were paced by Halford "Red" Baker who collected 11 markers. The victory was the fourth in a row for the Virginians and gave them permanent possession of a trophy.

Martinsburg finished second with 25 points, Hagerstown third with 14, Waynesboro fourth with 13 and Allegheny and Fort Hill in a tie for last with eight each. Allegheny's last victory was in 1933.

Two men from each school will be allowed in each of the running events and three from each school in each of the field events. Points will be given as follows: First, five; second, three; and third, one.

In charge of Allegheny's squad will be Coach Foy Curry. L. C. Smith is coach of Waynesboro's team. O. D. Sargent of Handley's crew, K. G. Stoner of Hagerstown's athletes, John Long of Fort Hill's outfit and John Coburn of Martinsburg's Bulldogs. Officials were announced this morning by Coach Long as follows:

Farr Thrills Countrymen With Victory Over Gains

Cardiff, May 17 (AP)—Tommy Farr, appearing in his first fight in two years before admiring Welsh countrymen, scored a technical knock-out in the fifth round tonight over 37-year-old Larry Gains, Canadian negro heavyweight. Both weighed 204 1-2 pounds.

Gains retired at the end of the fifth round with a damaged hand after Farr had piled up a big lead on points. Farr received a great ovation from the crowd of 30,000.

Droves of Pitchers Bring Joy to Managers of Browns

BY JOHN LARDNER

(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

New York, May 17—With the smug smile of a manager who has just rid himself of four second-rate pitchers because he thought he could afford to do it, Mr. Fred Haney stepped forward and identified himself.

"I am indeed Haney, of the St. Louis Browns," said the old Detroit infielder, "and my club has given me pitchers to burn, and boy, how some of them needed burning."

No one would have taken Mr. Haney for a Browns manager without his signed confession, for he lacked all the usual marks of the well-known criminal type—the gray hair, the haggard countenance, the furtive, guilty look behind him, as though he knew he was being followed.

Mr. Haney was being followed, all right, but not by detectives. He was being followed by pitchers, starting pitchers, in droves, herds, and categories.

Surrounded By Pitchers?

"I got so many now," said their proud pilot, "that I can divide 'em up alphabetically, like suitcases on the customs dock. If I yell out, 'all starting pitchers whose names begin with A, step forward,' they will be surrounded. So I'll just let it go."

Mr. Haney and his Browns have come east for their first whiff of the littoral (seaside) ball clubs, on the heels of one of the biggest playing fields in recent history. St. Louis gave four players to Detroit, and received six in return.

Both teams heaved vast sighs of relief when the ivory-swapping was consummated. Maybe this does not speak very well for the grade of athlete that each unloaded upon the other, but if the quality of the ivory is not so hot, the quantity is terrific. If you put all the Detroit chatters, westbound, and all the Browns, eastbound, into one revolving door—well, what's use of putting them in a revolving door? Deliveries like this are generally made through the coal window.

To refresh your memory, Detroit washed its hands of Vernon Kennedy, Roxie Lawson, George Gill, Bob Harris, Mark Christman, and Chet Laabs. St. Louis promptly struck back with Buck Newsom, Beau Bell, Red Kress, and Jim Waikey.

No sooner had he picked up his hand on the new deal and thumbed it through than Mr. Haney permitted himself a luxury absolutely unknown to St. Louis managers of the last decade. He discarded four of his own pitchers, Cole, Pyle, Van Atta, and Johnson.

When you think of the amount of anguish that these pitchers—and pitchers strangely like them—have caused to Brownie masterminds over the centuries, you will understand the feeling of exhilaration with which Mr. Frederick G. Haney contemplates the immediate future.

Too Happy To Be Suspicious

And if the suspicion occurs to you that Mr. Haney's new pitchers may turn out to be just like the old ones—well, it hasn't occurred to Mr. Haney yet. He looks too happy.

"I don't claim that anybody got the best of this deal," says the heir of Hornsby, Bottomley, and Street, a short, trim, alert-looking gentleman in his forties. "It was one of those deals that both clubs had to make. It helped us both."

"I can spare Kress and Bell. I've got the infielders to replace Kress, and in the outfield I've got Mel Mazera, hitting away over Bell's head. Maybe my new shortstop won't hit with Kress, but boy, I can spare the hitting, the way this club belts the ball. We've been losing ball games by 12 to 10, and that means just one thing. We had to have pitching."

"Naturally, I hate to see Newsom go. He was big, strong and handy. But I couldn't pitch him every day. I've got at least three starting pitchers to take his place, and I like their looks. I think they'll win for us."

"Del Baker is happy too, because he plugged holes at shortstop and in the outfield for Detroit. Like I say, everybody wins and nobody loses. We start this eastern trip against the toughest club in the business, the Yankees, but you can look for improvement pretty quick."

Detroit, of course, copped the "name" players—Newsom, Bell, Kress—in this gigantic horse-trade. But I am inclined to agree with Mr. Haney that the deal was at least even, and I think it may turn out in the end that the Browns got the better of it.

When last seen, Mr. Haney was clucking proudly at the head of his brood of starting pitchers, on the way to the ball park. A dime a dozen? So who is sneering at dimes these days?

Lazzeri's Career Swings with New Giant Contract

Tony Has Supplied Plenty Of Surprises Since Debut In American Loop

Grantland Rice Has Notion National League Can Use Him Nicely

BY GRANTLAND RICE

New York—The career of Tony Lazzeri takes another turn with his signing by the Giants. Curiously enough, this is about the only turn it has taken that didn't surprise anybody. With the Giants stumbling and needing help at third base and with Lazzeri on the market, it was a cinch that Bill Terry would grab him. It would have been very surprising indeed if Bill had allowed him to get away.

But Tony has supplied plenty of surprises in the years since he came swinging up out of the Pacific Coast League to join the Yankees in 1926. The first was that he was not only a ready-made major league ball player from a mechanical standpoint but that he, a bushy, virtually took command of the Yankees on the field—and without trying. It was just that the older players recognized that this slim Italian kid had an uncanny baseball sense and iron nerve under fire.

The second surprise was his tremendous appeal to the crowds and especially to the Italian fans not only in New York but wherever the Yankees played. There were many famous figures on that Yankee team but the kid ranked second only to Babe Ruth with the fans—and there were times when he even eclipsed the Babe.

Switch to the National

His departure, not so much from the Yankees but from the American League eleven years later was another surprise. Tony had worn himself out as a player with the Yankees and with Joe Gordon coming up from Newark for the 1938 season, he was looking around for a spot for himself somewhere else as the 1937 season waned. He could have remained with the Yankees as a coach and he knew it but he couldn't see any future there. He has—and still has, I assume—managerial aspirations and he wanted to break loose and start over again in some other town, so the Yankees gave him his release.

The general notion was that he would join another American League club, since he had spent his entire major league career in that league and didn't know his way around in the National. But to everybody's amazement he signed with the Cubs. P. K. Wrigley announcing that he wanted a little of the Yankees' spirit on his club and that Lazzeri would be expected to furnish it and also to serve as a coach and adviser to the manager, Charlie Grimm.

Hired as a brain truster, Tony furnished another surprise by acting as utility infielder and pounding the ball hard through the early weeks of the season. Meanwhile, his engagement had seemed to bar the way to advancement for Gabby Hartnett, generally regarded as the likeliest successor to Grimm if Charlie failed again. In Wrigley's opinion, he had failed in 1937. But when Grimm was removed, Hartnett got the job as manager and Tony was marked for shipment. His release last winter was not a surprise. That had been forecast the day Gabby took over the reins.

In and Out of Brooklyn

Tony still had two surprises up his sleeve, however. One was his signing with the Dodgers, the other his recent release by the Dodgers.

His 1938 experience in the National League not having been an altogether happy one, it was assumed that he would return to the American. As a matter of fact, there were rumors that he was slated for jobs in Cleveland, Chicago and St. Louis. But there he was in a Brooklyn uniform when the season started and, as substitute for Pete Coscarart, he helped to win some games and keep the Dodgers up in the league by walloping enemy pitching for two doubles and three home runs. And then, suddenly, he was out.

After eleven years with the Yankees he has made three stops in the National League in little more than one year. Certainly if he knew nothing of the National League in the days when he was a fixture at the Stadium, he must have learned a good deal about it since.

Tony served under two managers in Chicago and went through a pennant fight that ended in a photo finish and then, for the first time, knew how it felt to be on the National League side in a world series with the Yankees in Brooklyn he played under Leo Durocher, brand new to the business of managing and, like himself, a former American League. Now he is with Terry, who has spent all his major league years in the National and is one of its most successful and firmly established pilots.

Has Great Spirit

Expediency dictated his latest move. The Giants needed some protection at third base and he needed a job but the chances are that Tony feels his future lies in the Blood Attributes Pirates' Failure To 'Bad Breaks'

Buc Football Coach Thought He Had Winner With White Last Season

Pittsburgh, May 17 (AP)—Ten percent of the professional football Pirates in the person of Coach Johnny Blood laid the groundwork for next fall's season and hoped for "the breaks" today.

Commenting on the Pirates' bad season last year, Blood said:

"A coach is only 10 per cent of any football team."

"You have to get your share of the breaks to be a winner."

Blood believed he had a winner last year, built around Whizzer White, Rhodes scholar and former all-American from Colorado, and attributed the breakdown of that team to a series of "bad breaks."

First of the "bad breaks" listed by Blood was the necessity of playing three games in five days because of the tie-up at Forbes Field when the baseball Pirates had pennant hopes.

In addition there was a large injury list—four broken legs, and a shoulder hurt suffered by White in the pre-season all-star game at Chicago. Also, four of the first five games had to be played at night, handicapping White, who wasn't used to the glare of lights.

But chief of the "bad breaks" was the fact that by mid-season the team was financially strapped and many players were sold.

Blood explained:

"We had a better team than our record showed. We proved that when we beat the Giants, 14-10, in New York before everything went to pieces on us."

Referring to reports pirate players resented White's $15,000 salary, Blood declared:

"He was the best liked man on the team and the club looked better for him than for any of our other ball carriers. The fact that with a losing club he led the league in ground gaining proves that."

The coach said he would like to have the Whizzer back next season. And he "will have him, too," if there is war in Europe or White doesn't return to Oxford.

Sam Francis, Nebraska star, will be the new fullback for the Pirates. McCullough of Oklahoma University, has been signed. He is a fine passer. Bobby Grayson, former Stanford star and assistant coach, a three-time all-American drawn in the draft at the end of the 1936 season, will report. So will Nardi, the former Ohio State halfback, and Ernie Wheeler, another back from North Dakota State, and Tom Isett of Bucknell. Bill Davidson, Stu Smith and Silvio Zaninelli, veteran backs, will return.

Track Star Fractures Ankle in Race at Bethany College

Wheeling, W. Va., May 17 (AP)—Bob Sovetts of Glen Falls, N. Y., Bethany College sophomore, fractured his ankle today after running 50 yards in a spectacular 100-yard match race with Moffat Storer of Linsly Institute.

Storer, known as Linsly's "School-boy Wonder," covered the distance in 9.7 seconds, equaling his time in the event at the Wheeling Intelligence's Tri-State track meet last month. Sovetts ran even with Storer until the injury forced him out.

Seven Quality For CCC Spring Golf Tournament

Seven players have qualified for the annual Spring golf tournament of the Cumberland Country Club it was announced by Carroll Boggs, pro, last evening. The qualifying rounds must be played on or before Sunday, May 21, with the tourney play to get under way on Monday.

The following with their scores have qualified to date:

Carroll France, 86; Morgan C. Harris, 80; John Manley, 83; James Beacham, 81; Dr. J. E. McLean, 86; Jake Brown, 92, and Charles T. Carney 106.

Aurora Hits Hard To Down Oakland

Oakland, May 17—Registering 15 hits, Aurora (W. Va.) High tossers easily defeated Coach Thomas Baucom's Oakland High nine here Monday afternoon, 11-5.

Aurora had two men on base in each the first and second innings and three aboard in the third but none scored. In the fourth, the visitors drove Adams and then Gilmore to the showers, collecting ten runs on five singles, three doubles, a walk and four errors. The entire Oakland team seemed to fold up under the barrage of hits.

National League. My own notion is that the National League can use him very nicely in one capacity or another. His best playing days are a long way behind him, of course, but he is a robust soul with a great spirit.

In its battle to regain supremacy in the baseball show, the older league can use a lot of fellows like that. That thought well may have been behind Terry's haste in grabbing him.

Frostburg State Wins Over Towson Team 13-4

State Teachers College of Frostburg had little trouble turning back Towson State at Baltimore yesterday, 13-4. Conrad tightened up after the fourth inning when the score was tied 4-4, and blanked the home team the rest of the way. Meanwhile Coach Carrington's clouters went to work on the offerings of Cook, amassing 12 bingles.

Conrad limited Towson to six safeties.

Score by innings:

Towson 030 100 000—4 6 3
Frostburg 102 132 211—13 12 1
Cook and Shack; Conrad and Connors.

Shepherdstown Tops Berkeley Hi Tossers

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., May 17—Berkeley Springs High tossers were unable to sweep their season baseball series with Shepherdstown High, losing to the West Virginians 10-6 in a return tussle here Monday.

Both teams had one big inning, the Indians breaking a 1-1 deadlock in the second by scoring five runs. In the fourth, Shepherdstown tallied six times.

SHEPHERDSTOWN ... 100 001 2—10 14 4
BERKELEY ... 150 000 0—6 7 1
Shepherdstown—Nuckles and Skinner. Berkeley—Lutman, Sheppard and Waugh.

Figures 130-Miles Hour To Win Speedway Race

Indianapolis, May 17 (AP)—Rex Mays, whose throttle foot is as heavy as any in the business, figures it will take a qualifying speed of 130 miles an hour or better to win the coveted first position in the starting lineup of the Memorial Day 500-mile automobile race—and others along the racing fraternity's gasoline alley were agreed.

Stocks Decline in Dull Market; U. S. Issues Not Listed in London

Effort to Prevent Flight of Capital Has Little Effect

By FREDERICK GARDNER
New York, May 17. (AP)—Stocks moved hesitantly lower today, with a few leaders declining around two points but most losing only fractions. The Associated Press average of 30 stocks went off 0.3 of a point at 45. Only 534,470 shares were exchanged, compared with 620,540 yesterday.

The outstanding financial news of the day had no immediate major effect on the market. That was the disclosure that London brokers had agreed to refrain from the present from quoting American stocks to their customers.

Brokers said they believed this move indicated Great Britain was determined to prevent further flight of capital. Wall Street expected little effect from the move.

Available coal supplies of the steel interest were reported to be dwindling, despite curtailed steel production, and Iron Age magazine predicted purchases might be made from independent coal producers.

And isn't he lucky, too, in that the plot calls for his making love to Helen!

"The Hardys Ride High" Now at the Maryland

Sixth of the series in two years, "The Hardys Ride High," latest exploit of the popular screen family, comes to the Maryland Theatre today for an engagement of four days.

The familiar Hardy cast continues with Lewis Stone as the Judge, Mickey Rooney as his son, Andy, and Fay Holden as the wife and mother. Cecilia Parker portrays the young daughter, Sara Haden is Aunt Milly and Ann Rutherford again is Polly Benedict, the Carvel sweetheart of Mickey.

New faces appear in the cast as the family comes into temporary fortune and moves from the mythical town of Carvel to Detroit, there to live for a brief interlude in the luxury of millionaires. Virginia Grey portrays a cabaret glamour girl who attracts Mickey on his first venture into the night life of a city. John King, a protégé of Ben Bernie, is a young man about town, the legal heir to a fortune which the Hardys soon renounce.

Others in the cast, largest yet assembled for a Hardy picture, include Minor Watson, John T. Murray, Halliwell Hobbes, the Hardy's first butler, George Irving, Alleen Pringle, Marsha Hunt, Donald Briggs, William Orr and Truman Bradley.

"The Hardys Ride High" was directed by George B. Seitz, who has directed all of the five previous pictures in the series.

The story brings an inheritance of $2,000,000 to Judge Hardy from an ancestor of the period of the War of 1812. The family promptly flies to Detroit to take over the estate. Mickey responds to his new status with boyish enthusiasm, and in evening clothes and silk hat visits his first night club. Meanwhile, Aunt Milly, played by Miss Haden, encounters a middle-aged business man, portrayed by Watson, who appears to have matrimonial intentions. However, he merely wishes to sell her some real estate. Mickey goes to call on the glamour girl and is so overwhelmed that he turns and runs away.

Sheep 120. Few truck spring lambs slow, steady. Good and choice 12.00-25; few plain and medium throwouts 9.50-11.00; small lots good weighty woolled slaughter ewes 5.50.

Washington, May 17. (AP)—The position of the treasury, May 15: Receipts $12,869,257.91; expenditures $36,420,452.39; net balance $3,046,631.554.17; working balance included $2,379,026,256.00; customs receipts for month $13,141,388.07; receipts for fiscal year (July 1) $4,932,263,834.96; expenditures $7,972,752.72; emergency expenditures included $2,727,659,386.21; excess of expenditures $3,040,498,702.76; gross debt $40,230,096,659.86; increase above previous day $25,824,613.16; gold assets $15,867,018,622.37.

Holt Urges Students To Have Self Respect

Keyser, W. Va., May 17. (AP)—U. S. Senator Rush D. Holt, West Virginia Democrat, told the graduating class at Elk Garden high school tonight that "no one can be successful if he doesn't possess his own self respect."
"A man may be popular, yet unsuccessful," Holt added. "To chase popularity at the expense of one's conscientious belief is to build on shifting sand."

of films on the celebrated Oriental detective, has the most unusual voice to be heard on the screen today, in the opinion of the studio's chief sound "mixer."
And he should know. Because the "mixer" is the fellow who sits in his padded cell and, with a turn of a dial and a flick of a switch, can pull a voice up to a howl or reduce it to the whisper of a snail. He can recognize every star and most of the character actors in Hollywood by their voices—and he is in no small way responsible for endowing those voices with dramatic quality.

Toler is currently appearing as the smooth-talking confidence man in "Up The River," at the Garden Theatre. Preston Foster, Tony Martin, Arthur Treacher, Phyllis Brooks, Slim Summerville and Bill Robinson have featured roles in the comedy.

Little Janet Chapman is probably the youngest child ever to appear as key witness in an important murder trial.
Janet is just six, and she wouldn't know the meaning of the word murder if she could read it—which she can't. Nevertheless, her testimony plays an all important part in the murder hearing of John Littel in Warner Bros.' powerful courtroom drama, "On Trial," which is now playing at the Garden Theatre.

Bainter Guns For "Gunmen" in Gay Film
A comedy unique in theme and abundant in laughs opens at the Strand Theatre today and also shows tomorrow. It is Columbia's "The Lady and the Mob," the different film. Recent Academy Award Winner Fay Bainter is co-featured with pretty Ida Lupino in the production, easily one of the season's most enjoyable films. "The Lady and the Mob" tells the highly amusing story of how a mob is taken for a "ride" by a mildly eccentric, elderly Social Registerite. "The Lady" of the comedy's title is Mrs. Leonard of the sternest (Continued on Page 12)

"The Hardys Ride High" Now at the Maryland

Sixth of the series in two years, "The Hardys Ride High," latest exploit of the popular screen family, comes to the Maryland Theatre today for an engagement of four days.

The familiar Hardy cast continues with Lewis Stone as the Judge, Mickey Rooney as his son, Andy, and Fay Holden as the wife and mother, Cecilia Parker portrays the young daughter, Sara Haden is Aunt Milly and Ann Rutherford again is Polly Benedict, the Carvel sweetheart of Mickey.

New faces appear in the cast as the family comes into temporary fortune and moves from the mythical town of Carvel to Detroit, there to live for a brief interlude in the luxury of millionaires. Virginia Grey portrays a cabaret glamour girl who attracts Mickey on his first venture into the night life of a city. John King, a protégé of Ben Bernie, is a young man about town, the legal heir to a fortune which the Hardys soon renounce.

Others in the cast, largest yet assembled for a Hardy picture, include Minor Watson, John T. Murray, Halliwell Hobbes, the Hardy's first butler, George Irving, Alleen Pringle, Marsha Hunt, Donald Briggs, William Orr and Truman Bradley.

"The Hardys Ride High" was directed by George B. Seitz, who has directed all of the five previous pictures in the series.
The story brings an inheritance of $200,000 to Judge Hardy from an ancestor of the period of the War of 1812. The family promptly flies to Detroit to take over the estate. Mickey responds to his new status with boyish enthusiasm, and in evening clothes and silk hat visits his first night club. Meanwhile, Aunt Milly, played by Miss Haden, encounters a middle-aged business man, portrayed by Watson, who appears to have matrimonial intentions. However, he merely wishes to sell her some real estate. Mickey goes to call on the glamour girl and is so overwhelmed that he turns and runs away.

New Charlie Chan Has Unusual Voice

Sidney Toler, the 20th Century-Fox actor recently chosen to portray Charlie Chan in the new series of films on the celebrated Oriental detective, has the most unusual voice to be heard on the screen today, in the opinion of the studio's chief sound "mixer."

And he should know. Because the "mixer" is the fellow who sits in his padded cell and, with a turn of a dial and a flick of a switch, can pull a voice up to a bellow or reduce it to the whisper of a snail. He can recognize every star and most of the character actors in Hollywood by their voices—and he is in no small way responsible for endowing those voices with dramatic quality.

Toler is currently appearing as the smooth-talking confidence man in "Up The River," at the Garden Theatre. Preston Foster, Tony Martin, Arthur Treacher, Phyllis Brooks, Slim Summerville and Bill Robinson have featured roles in the comedy.

Little Janet Chapman is probably the youngest child ever to appear as key witness in an important murder trial.

Janet is just six, and she wouldn't know the meaning of the word murder if she could read it—which she can't. Nevertheless, her testimony plays an all important part in the murder hearing of John Lidel in Warner Bros. powerful courtroom drama, "On Trial," which is now playing at the Garden Theatre.

Bainter Guns For 'Gunmen' in Gay Film

A comedy unique in theme and abundant in laughs opens at the Strand Theatre today and also shows tomorrow. It is Columbia's "The Lady and the Mob," the different film. Recent Academy Award Winner Fay Bainter is co-

featured with pretty Ida Lupino in the production, easily one of the season's most enjoyable films. "The Lady and the Mob" tells the highly amusing story of how a mob is taken for a "ride" by a mildly eccentric, elderly Social Registerite.

U. S. Coal and Coke Company Mines at Gary W. Va., Reopen

Officials of U. S. Steel Subsidiary Did Not Sign Union Contract

Gary, W. Va., May 17 (AP)—The four southern West Virginia coal mines of "big steel," which have not signed a contract with the United Mine Workers of America, reopened today without opposition.

There were no pickets in sight as more than 1,000 miners went back to the pits on the day shift for the first time since March 31. A gathering of union members who said would protest the resumption failed to materialize during the afternoon. Aquino could not be reached immediately for comment.

At Charleston, Vice President William Blizard of the UMW District 17, said union members at Gary would visit among the men at home and ask that they stay out of the pits until a contract is signed.

He said he did not know if a "peaceful picket" line would be established.

T. J. McFarland, General Superintendent of the U. S. Coal and Coke Company operators here, said at three of the mines, 10 per cent of the crews turned out today while at the fourth only a partial crew reported because work notices were not posted until late last night.

Aquino said yesterday the union would not permit the mines to reopen without a contract. After the day's work started, he said between 2,000 and 3,000 union miners would be brought in to ask the men to stay out of the pits.

There was nothing out of the ordinary when the day shift came out today and the night shift started back in.

Resumption of operations at the mines, which supply coal only to their parent company, U. S. Steel Corporation, left but two Pocahontas and Tug River field operators idle because of no contract.

Two Companies Idle

Neither the Kingston-Pocahontas Coal Company at Hemphill nor the Carter Coal Company have signed the "union shop" agreement with the UMW, although it was understood the Carter Company now is negotiating.

There has been no attempt to resume operations at Hemphill, although Raymond Jennings of the Carter Company said work notices were posted Monday at his company mines but no workers showed up.

Elsewhere throughout the state coal production kept up an increased pace. All West Virginia operators' associations have signed the Appalachian agreement.

As yet there has been no attempt to reopen two other "captive" steel mines in northern West Virginia. The Industrial Collieries Corporation, subsidiary of Bethlehem Steel, has operations at Barrackville and Dakota, Marion county.

Speaking at Johnstown, Pa., Division Superintendent George Roberts said Industrial Collieries is ready to "operate the mines whenever the men desire to return to work—under . . . conditions exactly as they were prior to March 31."

Miley Issues Statement

President Frank Miley of UMW District 31 at Fairmont commented: "UMWA members will not go back to work under the old contract in captive mines as the union now has a 'new policy,' that agreed upon between miners and operators in New York. . . . This policy also includes working conditions in captive mines."

Last week the Independent Associated Miners Union, Inc., which had a contract with U. S. Coal and Coke at Gary prior to the general shutdown, announced members had voted to go back to work even if no Appalachian agreement between operators and the UMW was reached.

All during the seven weeks shutdown, the UMW conducted organization meetings at Gary, and Aquino claimed fifty-one per cent of the employees were union members.

W. T. Nunnally, president of the Independent Union, said his group would seek a ten per cent wage increase above the old scale, which was the same as the basic 1937 Appalachian scale. Company officials here could not say if the independents now were negotiating for a new agreement.

History of Borden Mining Company Is Published

Book Written by Arthur Lovell Is Received in Frostburg

Frostburg, May 17—The Mayor and City Commissioners at a special meeting this evening sold $50,000 worth of public improvement bonds to Alexander Brown and Sons of Baltimore for $51,009.50. The bonds will bear interest at the rate of three and one quarter per cent and mature in twenty years.

$15,000 of the issue will be used for street and sewer extension and $35,000 for the installation of water meters and extending the city water mains. Other bonding companies submitting bids were:

W. W. Lanahan and Company, MacKubin Legge and Company, and Stein Brothers and Boyce, all of Baltimore.

Frostburg, May 17—A brief history of the Borden Mining Company, established here in 1847, written by Arthur Lovell, New York, secretary, and neatly bound, has been received by local friends of the company during the past month. The book contains a prelude by Robert G. Borden, New York, the present head of the company and a descendant of the late William Borden, founder, in which he stresses the historic associations connected with the company's property in Allegany county.

The preface is as follows: "Colonel said General Braddock turning to George Washington: 'they stood one sunny morning in June 1755 on St. John's Rock on the occasion of the historic attempt to relieve Fort Duquesne, now Pittsburgh, in which the general was engaged at the time. 'There's coal in these hills.'"

"Whether this interesting colloquy actually took place or not will never be known. But St. John's Rock and the balance of the property belonging to the Borden Mining Company represents historic territory. General Braddock with the British Red Coats and the American Auxiliaries under the Colonel George Washington, passed and repassed over the property of the Borden Mining Company, St. John's Rock being a high vantage point from which the territory could be viewed in all directions was undoubtedly used by General Braddock and his aides for observation as the so-called Braddock Trail passes over this point; and as the National Pike traverses the area that later formed the Borden Mining Company property, we have the assurances that many of the stirring adventures of the early days in the formative period of our country are identified with the property of the Borden Mining Company."

Mayor Receives Book

Mr. Borden visited Frostburg several weeks ago and personally presented Mayor H. G. Evans with a copy of the book. He was the guest while here of his nephew, Frederick Y. Borden.

Mr. Borden, who is affectionately known to his local friends as "Uncle Albert," seemed highly pleased with a section of Mr. Lovell's history captioned "A Most Valuable Possession" and reading as follows: "The Borden Mining Company has rated as one of its chief assets over the years, the friendly esteem of the coal trade and the citizens of the district in which its mines are located. Among those who might be mentioned is Horace G. Evans, kindly mayor of Frostburg;"

Senior Play at Mt. Savage June First

Mt. Savage, May 17—The Mt. Savage Senior high school play, Moon Shy, will be given June 1, instead of June 2.

Changeable as the dates for this play have been, they are not a match for the variety and surprise of the play itself—in it the baseli Mortimer becomes the bold lover, and the bold criminal, Duke, becomes a reformed and timid husband of his devoted Maggie.

U. S. Coal and Coke Company Mines at Gary W. Va., Reopen

Officials of U. S. Steel Subsidiary Did Not Sign Union Contract

Gary, W. Va., May 17 (AP)—The four southern West Virginia coal mines of "big steel," which have not signed a contract with the United Mine Workers of America, reopened today without opposition.

There were no pickets in sight as more than 1,000 miners went back to the pits on the day shift for the first time since March 31. A gathering of union members who Jesse Aquino, UMW representative, said would protest the resumption failed to materialize during the afternoon. Aquino could not be reached immediately for comment.

At Charleston, Vice President William Blizard of the UMW District 17, said union members at Gary would visit among the men at home and ask that they stay out of the pits until a contract is signed.

He said he did not know if a "peaceful picket" line would be established.

T. J. McFarland, General Superintendent of the U. S. Coal and Coke Company operators here, said at three of the mines 10 per cent of the crews turned out today while at the fourth only a partial crew reported because work got out of the pits until late last night.

Aquino said yesterday the union would not permit the mines to reopen without a contract. After the day's work started, he said between 2,000 and 3,000 union miners would be brought in to ask the men to stay out of the pits.

There was nothing out of the ordinary when the day shift came out today and the night shift started back in.

Resumption of operations at the mines, which supply coal only to their parent company, U. S. Steel Corporation, left but two Pocahontas and Tug River field operators idle because of no contract.

Two Companies Idle
Neither the Kingston-Pocahontas Coal Company at Hemphill nor the Carter Coal Company have signed the "union shop" agreement with the UMWA, although it was understood the Carter Company now is negotiating.

There has been no attempt to resume operations at Hemphill, although Raymond Jennings of the Carter Company said work notices were posted Monday at his company mines but no workers showed up.

Elsewhere throughout the state coal production kept up an increased pace. All West Virginia operators' associations have signed the Appalachian agreement.

As yet there has been no attempt to reopen two other "captive" steel mines in northern West Virginia. The Industrial Collieries Corporation, subsidiary of Bethlehem Steel, has operations at Barrackville and Dakota, Marion county.

Speaking at Johnstown, Pa., Division Superintendent George Roberts said Industrial Collieries is ready to "operate the mines whenever the men desire to return to work—under conditions exactly as they were prior to March 31."

Miley Issues Statement
President Frank Miley of UMWA District 31 at Fairmont commented: "UMWA members will not go back to work under the old contract in captive mines as the union now has a 'new policy' that agreed upon between miners and operators in New York. . . . This policy also includes working conditions in captive mines."

Last week the Independent Associated Miners Union, Inc., which held a contract with U. S. Coal and Coke at Gary prior to the general shutdown, announced members had voted to go back to work even if no Appalachian agreement between operators and the UMWA was reached.

All during the seven weeks shutdown, the UMWA conducted organization meetings at Gary, and Aquino claimed fifty-one per cent of the employees were union members.

W. T. Nunnally, president of the Independent Union, said his group would seek a ten per cent wage increase above the old scale, which was the same as the basic 1937 Appalachian scale. Company officials here could not say if the independents now were negotiating for a new agreement.

New Methods, Dog Training, Featured In Thrilling Film

For the first time in pictures involving the services of a dog, many phases of the "utility trials" are shown in detail, scenes which depict to owners and trainers of show animals the features their animals will be called upon to exhibit in future shows.

Utility trials are a comparatively new feature of dog shows, having been incorporated in accredited shows for only the last two years. They were devised to give added opportunity to animals whose training rendered them more than just beautiful bench dogs. The trials include such tests of training as heeling, retrieving, guarding, scenting, sounding, trailing — all obedience tests which put the animals upon their finest mettle.

The script of "Almost a Gentleman" has been ingeniously devised to give these features comprehensive exposition. Ace, The Wonder Dog, trained by Earl Johnson, who is a nationally-known authority and one of the originators of the utility trials, plays a leading part in the film-plot which utilizes trial work in its denouement.

(Continued from Page 11) Valley Forge stock Down through the years Mrs. Leonard has acquired an additional sterness all her own. When she learns that racketeers have invaded her historic community and that the authorities are helpless, she decides to put them to flight herself.

It will spoil no surprises to reveal that she buys an armored car, recruits a "mob" of her own, and then uses the gangster's own strongarm tactics. In doing so she runs afoul of the law and nearly wrecks her son's romance.

The picture's all-comedy cast is perfect. Miss Lupino, as expected, is delightful, and pairs excellently with Lee Bowman for romantic interest. Warren Hymer is superbly cast as an ex-thug, who drives Miss Bainter's armored car.

Showing in conjunction with this great picture is Don Stryker's Follies Continental, a forty-people stage revue, that is said to be one of the best en-tour.

Truly here is a great amusement bargain—a good stage show and a picture that rates as one of the season's most satisfying entertainments.

Don Stryker brings his famous Follies Continental Revue to the Strand Theatre Thursday and Friday, May 18th and 19th. Don is one of Broadway's foremost producers. This year he has assembled eight of the best vaudeville novelty acts. He has a beauty chorus and, last but not least, gorgeous costumes and scenery. There are forty people in the revue and a swing band.

This outstanding little revue (one hour long) shows with the Columbia comedy, "The Lady and the Mob."

Scouts at Oakland Are Seeking $250

Troop Committee Plans To Make Repairs at Camp Site

Oakland, Md., May 17.—A drive for at least $250 is being made by the troop committee of Oakland Boy Scout Troop No. 1, to make necessary repairs and additions to the Bay Scout camp site on Deep Creek Lake, nine miles north of Oakland.

Plans were made at a meeting of the committee at the home of the Rev. D. C. Trimble. The work will include a combination kitchen and screened dining room repairs to the barracks and the purchase of a stove and mattress for the bunks.

The present camp site has been in use for a number of years and the three owners have informed the troop committee that the ground will be available as long as scouting remains active in Oakland.

The Oakland troop expects to camp during the latter part of July and the first part of August. Letters are being sent to former scouts asking their assistance and members of the troop committee, according to Dr. W. W. Grant, chairman, are also planning to ask for help from the citizens.

Friend Rites Held

Funeral services were conducted this morning at 10 o'clock for Mrs. Lulu Casteel Friend, 51, wife of George E. Friend, Friendsville, who died suddenly at her home Sunday evening about 8 o'clock, of a heart attack.

She was a daughter of Taze and Margaret Sterling Casteel and was born May 20, 1887. She was married July 29, 1916, to George E. Friend, and to this union two children were born, George Donald Friend and John Eugene Friend.

Besides her husband and two sons she is also survived by four sisters, Mrs. Valeria Grove, and Mrs. A. C. Griffin, Baltimore; Mrs. Harry Frazier, Bergamo, W. Va.; and Mrs. Clyde W. Shipley, Mt. Lake Park.

a satire on the recent epidemic of gangster pictures.

New Methods, Dog Training, Featured In Thrilling Film

For the first time in pictures involving the services of a dog, many phases of the "utility trials" are shown in detail, scenes which depict to owners and trainers of show animals the features their animals will be called upon to exhibit in future shows.

Utility trials are a comparatively new feature of dog shows, having been incorporated in accredited shows for only the last two years. They were devised to give added opportunity to animals whose training rendered them more than just beautiful bench dogs. The trials include such tests of training as heeling, retrieving, guarding, scenting, sounding, trailing — all obedience tests which put the animals upon their finest mettle.

The script of "Almost a Gentleman" has been ingeniously devised to give these features comprehensive exposition. Ace, The Wonder Dog, trained by Earl Johnson, who is a nationally-known authority and one of the originators of the utility trials, plays a leading part in the film-plot which utilizes trial work in its denouement.

FLOWERS BOPPS,

Widow Sits Down In Shovel's Path, Defying Court

Roadbuilders Forced To Quit Work Again; No Arrest Made

Mrs. Emma Frances Wolfe defied a court order yesterday and sat down in front of the power shovel that was supposed to rip open a new entrance to the Shrine Country Club on the Baltimore Pike.

Although Mrs. Wolfe, an elderly widow, took up her stand in her best Sunday-go-to-meeting dress and hat because they wouldn't want to take me to jail in a sun-bonnet," she was not moved, and in a few minutes the power shovel backed away again.

Mrs. Wolfe, who believes she is acting as a steward for the Lord in defending what was her property from the road building crew, declared that she was ready to go to jail whenever officers wanted to take her away.

Locks Her Door

She locked her door to her home before walking across the lawn to halt the shovel, as a demonstration that she was prepared to be marched to jail.

That, however, did not happen yesterday, although Associate Judge William A. Huster signed an order in late afternoon commanding her to appear in Circuit court tomorrow morning to show cause why she should not be held in contempt of court for her disobedience of the order. The show-cause order is to be served on her today.

The order was issued on petition of W. Earle Cobey, attorney for the State Roads Commission and the S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company, who earlier in the day had filed the petition asking an injunction to prevent her from interfering with their work on the club entrances.

Sheriff Serves Paper

Sheriff Lucian C. Radcliffe served the original injunction on her at 3 p. m. yesterday. Upon service of the order, the construction company, which had been standing by since Mrs. Wolfe's first "sit-down" almost two weeks ago, moved its shovel and trucks to the contested site.

Before one bit of earth had been scooped up, however, Mrs. Wolfe emerged from her home across the road, dumbled off a board, raised her umbrella, and sat down on the board directly in the path of the shovel.

As the power shovel moved closer she stood up and announced, "Well, here I am. You can take me to jail now."

With the shovel ready for action, a construction company official asked her, "Will you please move so that we can go on with the work?"

Her Answer Plain Enough

"No!" was the determined widow's answer, and in the face of that the construction crew stopped work for the day. Officials said last night that no effort will be made to grade the entrances today, either.

The contempt hearing was set for Friday instead of today because Judge Huster must be in Hagerstown today.

The original court order yesterday temporarily enjoined Mrs. Wolfe from interfering with the road crew and directed her to show cause why a permanent injunction should not be issued. The order granted her the right to move for the rescinding of the order.

Issuance of the injunction followed filing of a lengthy equity petition by the State Roads Commission and the Brotemarkle company.

Public Nuisance Charged

Filed by Attorney Cobey, Attorney General William C. Walsh, and Special Assistant Attorney General Thomas M. Jenifer, the suit charges that Mrs. Wolfe's acts were "unlawful" and constituted a "public nuisance."

The bill of complaint further declares that the continuance of her acts would cause "irreparable damage" to the commission and to the construction company.

The State Roads Commission acquired the land in dispute in condemnation proceedings in Circuit court, the bill sets forth, explaining, too, that the Shrine Club deeded certain rights-of-way to the State on condition that new entrances to the club property would be provided.

The bill points out that Mrs. Wolfe, widow of William G. Wolfe, stood in front of the power shovel on May 4 and refused to move out of the way despite repeated requests.

Impossible to Work

It was impossible to continue the work "without probably inflicting serious personal injury upon her and otherwise endangering her life," it continues.

Since then, the complaints assert, "numerous" conversations have been held with her in an effort to persuade her to allow the work to continue. But, they add, she has declared that she will not permit the grading to be completed; that she will strive to prevent it; and that she will employ others, if necessary, to replace the dirt removed.

The new entrances to the club were made necessary by relocation of the Baltimore Pike east of the city. To construct the new entrances, a cut must be made through a comparatively narrow strip of land lying between the old road and the new.

Land No Longer Hers

Although Mrs. Wolfe claims that the land is hers, the bill filed yesterday declares that she has no right, title, or interest in it whatever.

The suit is filed in the name of Ezra B. Whitman, chairman, P. Watson Webb, and J. Glenn Beall,

North Cumberland Junkyard Made Into City Park and Beauty Spot

The City of Cumberland continues to set the example for its citizens in trying to make the most of the natural beauty of the community's surroundings.

Now it's in North Cumberland that Mrs. Marguerite A. Findlay, park commissioner, and her crew of two men are busy.

The triangle at the intersection of Furnace and Valley streets, which the city purchased some time ago as the site for a fire house which was never built, is being transformed from a junk heap and an eyesore into a city park.

The entire plot, which will be large enough for plenty of benches and shrubbery, has been cleaned off and graded in the past several weeks and the soil prepared for grass seeding.

In the center of the plot a flower bed has been prepared about twenty-five feet in diameter. It is built up inside a circular wall of fancy masonry work built by Irving Miller, employee of the city street department.

In this bed will be planted plants of brilliant hue, including cannas, scarlet sage, and coleuses.

Brick pillars similar to those at Riverside park have been erected at each of three entrances. Paths lead from these gateways to the flower bed in the center. The walks have been shaled, oiled, and rolled, and it is hoped later to cover them with blacktop.

A hedge has been planted around the entire plot, and it got its first trimming Tuesday.

Shrubbery which already has reached a substantial size is being planted. "I think it's better to get

New Airport Site On City's Edge Found Excellent

Survey Not Complete, But Engineers Believe All Requirements Met

Although city engineers working under Rizer still have two days work at the proposed airport site where they have been engaged in making a survey for the last ten days, Rizer said that the location was apparently ideal for the proposed port.

The site includes between 150 and 175 acres of grazing and cut-over timber land, located on a bluff above the river upstream from the Welton tunnel of the Western Maryland Railway.

Make Detailed Survey

Six engineers working under John Marean, assistant to Mr. Rizer, have been engaged in making the detailed survey and map which will give a clear picture of the location for future reference.

According to Mr. Rizer, the site will be amply large for three runways, which must be 2,500 feet long and 500 feet wide, including 100 feet of hard surface.

Judging from the engineer's estimate, the gliding angle will more than meet the necessary requirements in all directions. The gliding angle must be 20 to one and no greater than two per cent at any point. According to Mr. Rizer, the gliding angle at the Wiley Ford site will be less than one per cent.

Options Already Taken

Options on the purchase of the land have already been taken by Arthur Weber, member of the City Airport committee. The cost of the land will be less than $12,000, Mr. Weber announced.

The proposed site is comprised of parts of properties owned by Mrs. Catherine McAbee and Thomas W. Walley.

Mr. Rizer said that he would not make any final statement regarding the site until his engineers completed their survey. The results will be submitted to Albert H. Wesel, district airport engineer for the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

If the survey turns out to be the success that engineers anticipate, it will next be up to the Mayor and City Council as to whether the land is purchased or not.

Building Trades Union Opposes Renewing Permit For 'Brixite' Concern

A protest addressed to the Mayor and City Council from F. P. Allen, as president and business representative of the Building and Construction Trades Council, was received yesterday by Council Clerk S. E. Gruninger. The communication read:

"We wish to protest the granting of a permit to a concern operating in the Eagles' building under the trade name of 'Brixite.' This permit was granted and the company exempted from bond as required by the City ordinance.

"We have investigated and found they are renting this room a month at a time. For the past several summers companies of this type have come into Cumberland and sold home owners the idea of covering their homes with their material."

"They are paying far less than the scale of wages paid our local men which makes them unfair competitors to local tax payers, and by not staying in business any longer than a month at a time, and not being required to put up bond, it is being unfair to our local material dealers."

"We would greatly appreciate being notified when this permit expires so that one of our representatives can be present and officially enter a protest in the granting of this permit."

Burglars Travel Mile Underground In Sewer To Get Into Candy Store

The breaking and entering job pulled off by a gang of youths now being held for the October term grand jury was as strange a piece of work as might have been accomplished in the great sewers of Paris, officers revealed last night.

Officers who finally cracked the case, including Detectives B. Frank Gaffney and Robert E. Flynn, Lieut. James E. Van and Officer James E. Kelley, discovered that in robbing the Soterakos Confectionery on North Centre street, the youths entered the store through a sewer intended for carrying off surface water.

Travel Mile Underground

The boys entered the big pipe at its opening in the north end of town and traveled for a mile in the gloomy tunnel underneath the city until they arrived directly underneath the Soterakos confectionary. Detective Gaffney said.

The entrance into the sewer was made through a manhole which leads from the tunnel directly into the building. Two different times the boys made their spooky underground trip to the store, where they lowered approximately $160 worth of merchandise through the manhole into the underground tunnel.

The youths then replaced the cover on the manhole, crawled into the tunnel and then packed their stolen goods underground to the opening of the pipe. The stolen articles were then cached in a hideout, a woods located off Piedmont avenue, the officers said.

Unexpected Opposition To Occupational Disease Bill Offered by Jones

Organized labor has unexpectedly offered militant opposition to a bill now awaiting Governor O'Connor's signature which would include occupational disease under the Workmen's Compensation Act, it was learned yesterday.

Governor O'Connor received vigorous protests against signing the measure from John T. Jones, president of the Maryland and District of Columbia Industrial Union Council (CIO) and District United Mine Workers executive.

Jones said the council voted to oppose the measure because the "only beneficiaries under this bill are the insurance companies."

Organized labor had supported the measure, which confers benefits on workmen suffering from ailments growing out of their work, when it was before the legislature. Delegates identified with labor interests were instrumental in obtaining its enactment.

The governor set Monday afternoon for an executive hearing on the protests, at which opponents of the measure will be given an opportunity to voice their objections.

Calling for "enlightened employers" to "join with labor against this bill," Jones asserted that it was drafted by and for insurance companies.

The bill, he added, does not do what it is supposed to. He said 10,000 signatures will be sought on a petition opposing it.

Decree Permits Sale Of Robb Property

A decree permitting the sale of real estate to pay debts owed by the estate is asked in a petition docketed yesterday in Circuit court by Mrs. Blanche S. Robb, administratrix of the estate of Judge David A. Robb.

The bill, filed by Attorney Charles Z. Heskett, says that her husband died intestate April 29, 1937, "without leaving sufficient personal estate with which to discharge his obligations."

Several properties in which the late Circuit court judge held half-interests are listed in Allegany Grove and Ridgedale Addition. Sale of these interests, use of the proceeds to discharge the debts, and distribution of the balance, if any, to the heirs are asked. Nancy M. Robb, daughter, is named a nominal defendant.

The bill points out that Judge Robb held the properties jointly with the late David P. Miller, and that the court permitted sale of his interests after his death April 8, 1937.

Parents Arrested For Assaulting School Teacher

Brought to Jail, Later Released Under $500 Bond

Two parents charged with assaulting a veteran Cresaptown school teacher were arrested on a warrant from the State's attorney office last night and were taken to the county jail.

Later, they appeared before Magistrate Roy Bowman, of Cresaptown, who released the two parents under $500 bond each.

When brought to the State's attorney's office for questioning, Mr. Ralph Wertz, 28, of Pinto, leveled a bitter attack against Miss Isadora Casey, of Frostburg, the teacher who is charged with assaulting Tuesday morning while her husband urged her on.

Says Teacher Hit First

The embittered mother denies that she pitched into Miss Casey in the school corridor during their argument and declared that "she smacked me first."

She charged that Miss Casey tried to throw her eleven-year-old daughter, Gladys, out of school, contending that she was fourteen instead of eleven and therefore beyond the age limit. The teacher stated that the age limit is thirteen, Mrs. Wertz said.

Mrs. Wertz asserted that Miss Casey intimated that her daughter was an illegitimate child when she told the teacher that she had been married eleven years.

Admits Frequent Absences

"My daughter has the right to an education the same as every other American child," the mother cried. "What right has that teacher got to say whether my child shall be allowed to go to school or not?"

Admitting that her eleven-year-old daughter, Gladys, had been absent from school a good deal due to ill health, Mrs. Wertz declared that Miss Casey had been hostile to both her daughter and herself. Miss Casey once called her "a liar," the mother declared.

Denying that she started the altercation that occurred in the school corridor Tuesday, Mrs. Wertz stated that she and her husband went to the school because they thought that the teacher took Gladys' excuse notes without even reading them.

Absent Too Often, Teacher Says

Earlier, school authorities stated that the trouble occurred when Miss Casey informed the little Wertz girl that she had been absent from school too often and would need an excuse. Following an investigation it was reported by school authorities that the girl had missed 8 of 150 school days.

Mrs. Wertz said that when she and her husband went to the door of Miss Casey's room, the teacher said "Take her out of here, take her out of here, we don't want her, referring to the little girl."

Mrs. Wertz asserted that going to school had been very embarrassing for her daughter in view of Miss Casey's alleged contention concerning her age.

Failed To Complain to Kopp

Asked by County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle why she hadn't gone to Superintendent Charles L. Kopp if she felt the teacher was inadequate, Mrs. Wertz replied that she "didn't think it would do any good."

The mother said that she did so before her own P.T.A. group of one occasion regarding Miss Casey, and that the organization had overruled her, explaining that such matters were not for its consideration.

Jail Prisoner Tries Suicide

But Paul McCusker Fails To Get Out

Prompt medical attention foiled an apparent suicide attempt by a prisoner in the county jail last week. It was learned yesterday.

Sheriff Lucian C. Radcliffe disclosed that Paul McCusker, 20, facing a year's sentence in the House of Correction for assault with intent to murder, drank a quantity of disinfectant last Thursday night.

Deputies, summoned by other prisoners in the jail, immediately called Dr. W. F. Williams, county physician, who used a stomach pump to remove the liquid.

He recommended that the youth be removed to the hospital for the night, and he was sent to Memorial hospital under guard.

Apparently little the worse for his experience, he was taken to the House of Correction the following morning, as scheduled.

Sheriff Radcliffe and Dr. Williams expressed doubt that McCusker had drunk a pint and a half of the disinfectant, as he claimed.

The sheriff and his deputies said that prisoners in the jail told them that McCusker declared that he had obtained a parole on a previous occasion by taking poison while in jail.

McCusker was convicted by a jury of brutally beating 16-year-old Howard Izer last January. A motion for a new trial was overruled by Associate Judge William A. Huster.

In an answer neither admitting nor denying the charges, Mrs. Stottlemeyer asks that the bill be dismissed. She is represented by Attorney Morris Baron.

New Airport Site On City's Edge Found Excellent

Survey Not Complete, But Engineers Believe All Requirements Met

Geographical conditions appear to be favorable for the construction of a municipal airport just across the Potomac in West Virginia near Wiley Ford, Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, said yesterday.

Although city engineers working under Rizer still have two days work at the proposed airport-site where they have been engaged in making a survey for the last ten days, Rizer said that the location was apparently ideal for the proposed port.

The site includes between 150 and 175 acres of grazing and cut-over timber land, located on a bluff above the river upstream from the Welton tunnel of the Western Maryland Railway.

Make Detailed Survey

Six engineers working under John Marean, assistant to Mr. Rizer, have been engaged in making the detailed survey and map which will give a clear picture of the location for future reference.

According to Mr. Rizer, the site will be amply large for three runways, which must be 2,500 feet long and 500 feet wide, including 100 feet of hard surface.

Judging from the engineer's estimate, the gliding angle will more than meet the necessary requirements in all directions. The gliding angle must be 20 to one and no greater than two per cent at any point. According to Mr. Rizer, the gliding angle at the Wiley Ford site will be less than one per cent.

Options Already Taken

Options on the purchase of the land have already been taken by Arthur Weber, member of the City Airport committee. The cost of the land will be less than $12,000, Mr. Weber announced.

The proposed site is comprised of parts of properties owned by Mrs. Catherine McAbee and Thomas W. Walley.

Mr. Rizer said that he would not make any final statement regarding the site until his engineers completed their survey. The results will be submitted to Albert H. Wessel, district airport engineer for the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

If the survey turns out to be the success that engineers anticipate, it will next be up to the Mayor and City Council as to whether the land is purchased or not.

Building Trades Union Opposes Renewing Permit For 'Brixite' Concern

A protest addressed to the Mayor and City Council from F. P. Allen, as president and business representative of the Building and Construction Trades Council, was received yesterday by Council Clerk S. E. Grimmer. The communication read:

"We wish to protest the granting of a permit to a concern operating in the Eagles' building under the trade name of 'Brixite.' This permit was granted and the company exempted from bond as required by the City ordinance.

"We have investigated and found they are renting this room a month at a time. For the past several summers companies of this type have come into Cumberland and sold home owners the idea of covering their homes with their material.

"They are paying far less than the scale of wages paid our local men which makes them unfair competitors to local tax payers, and by not staying in business any longer than a month at a time, and not being required to put up bond, it is being unfair to our local material dealers.

"We would greatly appreciate being notified when this permit expires so that one of our representatives can be present and officially enter a protest in the granting of this permit."

Burglars Travel Mile Underground In Sewer To Get Into Candy Store

The breaking and entering job pulled off by a gang of youths now being held for the October term grand jury was as strange a piece of work as might have been accomplished in the great sewers of Paris, officers revealed last night.

Officers who finally cracked the case, including Detectives B. Frank Gaffney and Robert E. Flynn, Lieut. James E. Van and Officer James E. Kelley, discovered that in robbing the Soterakos Confectionery on North Centre street, the youths entered the store through a sewer intended for carrying off surface water.

Travel Mile Underground

The boys entered the big pipe at its opening in the north end of town and traveled for a mile in the gloomy tunnel underneath the city until they arrived directly underneath the Soterakos confectionary, Detective Gaffney said.

The entrance into the store was made through a manhole which leads from the tunnel directly into the building. Two different times the boys made their spooky underground trip to the store, where they lowered approximately $160 worth of merchandise through the manhole into the underground tunnel.

The youths then replaced the cover on the manhole, crawled into the tunnel and then packed their stolen goods underground to the opening of the pipe. The stolen articles were then cached in a hideout, a woods located off Piedmont avenue, the officers said.

Unexpected Opposition To Occupational Disease Bill Offered by Jones

Organized labor has unexpectedly offered militant opposition to a bill now awaiting Governor O'Connor's signature which would include occupational disease under the Workmen's Compensation Act, it was learned yesterday.

Governor O'Connor received vigorous protests against signing the measure from John T. Jones, president of the Maryland and District of Columbia Industrial Union Council (CIO) and district United Mine Workers executive.

Organized labor had supported the measure, which confers benefits on workmen suffering from ailments growing out of their work, when it was before the legislature. Delegates identified with labor interests were instrumental in obtaining its enactment.

The governor set Monday afternoon for an executive hearing on the protests, at which opponents of the measure will be given an opportunity to voice their objections.

Calling for "enlightened employers" to "join with labor against this bill," Jones asserted that it was drafted by and for insurance companies.

Decree Permits Sale Of Robb Property

A decree permitting the sale of real estate to pay debts owed by the estate is asked in a petition docketed yesterday in Circuit court by Mrs. Blanche S. Robb, administratrix of the estate of Judge David A. Robb.

The bill, filed by Attorney Charles Z. Heskett, says that her husband died intestate April 29, 1937, "without leaving sufficient personal estate with which to discharge his obligations."

Several properties in which the late Circuit court judge held half-interests are listed in Allegany Grove and Ridgedale Addition. Sale of these interests, use of the proceeds to discharge the debts, and distribution of the balance, if any, to the heirs are asked. Nancy M. Robb, daughter, is named a nominal defendant.

The bill points out that Judge Robb held the properties jointly with the late David P. Miller, and that the court permitted sale of his interests after his death April 8, 1937.

Parents Arrested For Assaulting School Teacher

Brought to Jail, Later Released Under $500 Bond

Two parents charged with assaulting a veteran Cresaptown school teacher were arrested on warrant from the State's attorney office last night and were taken to the county jail.

Later, they appeared before Magistrate Roy Bowman, of Cresaptown, who released the two parents under $500 bond each.

When brought to the State's attorney's office for questioning, Mrs. Ralph Wertz, 28, of Pinto, leveled a bitter attack against Miss Leoda Casey, of Frostburg, the teacher who is charged with assaulting Tuesday morning while her husband urged her on.

Says Teacher Hit First

The embittered mother denied that she pitched into Miss Casey in the school corridor during their argument and declared that "she smacked me first."

She charged that Miss Casey tried to throw her eleven-year-old daughter, Gladys, out of school, contending that she was fourteen instead of eleven and therefore beyond the age limit. The teacher stated that the age limit is thirteen, Mrs. Wertz said.

Mrs. Wertz asserted that Miss Casey intimated that her daughter was an illegitimate child when she told the teacher that she had been married eleven years.

Admits Frequent Absences

Admitting that her eleven-year-old daughter, Gladys, had been absent from school a good deal due to ill health, Mrs. Wertz declared that Miss Casey had been hostile to both her daughter and herself. Miss Casey once called her "a liar," the mother declared.

Denying that she started the altercation that occurred in the school corridor Tuesday, Mrs. Wertz stated that she and her husband went to the school because they thought that the teacher tore Gladys' excuse notes without even reading them.

Absent Too Often, Teacher Says

Earlier, school authorities stated that the trouble occurred when Miss Casey informed the little Wertz girl that she had been absent from school too often and would need an excuse. Following an investigation, it was reported by school authorities that the girl had missed 20 of 150 school days.

Mrs. Wertz said that when she and her husband went to the door of Miss Casey's room, the teacher said "Take her out of here, take her out of here, we don't want her," referring to the little girl.

Mrs. Wertz asserted that going to school had been very embarrassing for her daughter in view of Miss Casey's alleged contentions concerning her age.
